WILTSHIRE.

.TSHIRE is a south-western inland shire to the south of Thames, bounded on the north-west by Gloucestershire, he north-east by Berkshire, on the east by Hampshire, he south by Hampshire and Dorsetshire, and on the west omersetshire: its shape is that of a long square, with a id head to the north: it lies between 50° 55′ and 51° 43′ h latitude, and 1° 30′ and 2° 22′ west longitude, the area 6,677 acres. The greatest length from north to south 4 miles, and the greatest breadth from east to west is niles. The population at various periods has been as ws:—1801, 183,820; 1811, 191,853; 1821, 219,574; ,237,244; 1841, 256,280; 1851, 254,221; 1861, 249,311; , 257,177; and in 1881, 258,965, viz.:—males, 128,114, females 130,851. The number of houses were: inted 55,677, uninhabited 3,877, and building 222. The ate on the downs is healthy, but the air is cold and p: in the north-west it is milder. North-east Wilts is ned by the feeders of the Thames, North-west Wilts by e of the Severn, and South Wilts by the heads of the bury Avon. The shire is cut by a line of downs across niddle, to the south of which is Salisbury Plain: in the h another line of downs runs right across. The great er of Marlborough Downs fills the north-east to the h of Swindon.

the north rise the Thames head, Flagham brook, and brook, joining the Churn, or true Thames, near Crick-; it then flows along the north border of Wilts, taking Key, or Ray and the Cole. The Key, which is a mill-m about 16 miles long, rises in the hills near Wrough-passes near Swindon and joins the Churn near Crick-; the Cole, which is 13 miles long, rises to the east of Key and flows towards Lechlade; the Kennett rises Wroughton, within Marlborough Downs, flows south, east to Marlborough and so past Hungerford to Reading he Thames: at Marlborough it receives the Ogbourn, Ramsbury the Aldburn, and near Hungerford a brook Bedwyn: the Kennett flows for 20 miles through hire.

e north, or Bristol Avon, rises in the Cotswold Hills in cestershire, enters Wiltshire near Luckington, and flows o Malmesbury, where it takes the Tetbury brook, 9 miles ; it then flows south to Chippenham: near Chippenham, Iarden, 10 miles long, flows in from Calne; the Avon south to Melksham, where a feeder from Devizes, 13 long, flows in; from Melksham the course of the Avon uth-westerly by Bradford towards Bath, and so to the n below Bristol: the Mere, from Trowbridge flows in Bradford. The feeders of the Frome rise near War-er, and that stream joins the Avon below Bradford.

e Salisbury Avon is formed by five arms spreading over n Wilts—the Ebele, the Nadder, the Wiley, the Avon he Bourne; the Ebele flows along the south border from o west, and falls into the Avon below Salisbury; the er, 18 miles long, rises near Shaftesbury, under the of the Don, and flows east to Wilton, where it joins iley; the Wiley or Willy, rises under the name of the ill near Mere, flows north towards Warminster and Heytesbury, below which a small bourne, 6 miles long, in; the Wiley, near Wilton, joins the Nadder, and then to the Avon at Salisbury, being 27 miles long; the Avon near Devizes, in North Wilts, and keeps a southerly ion, taking near Rushall the Pewsey stream, and so going past Amesbury to Salisbury; the Bourne rises in the middle downs to the north of Ludgershall, and flows southerly for 23 miles to Salisbury; below Salisbury the Avon, after taking the Ebele, flows into Hampshire, and so towards the sea at Christchurch; its whole length in Wiltshire is 41 miles. Near Mere some of the feeders of the Dorsetshire Stour rise.

None of the Wiltshire rivers are of much use for navigation, but they turn mills and feed the canals.

The railways belong to the Great Western and London and South Western Companies: the main line of the Great Western comes in from London, south of Highworth (to which there is a branch), passes by Swindon, Dauntsey (with a branch to Malmesbury), Wootton Bassett, Chippenham, Corsham and Box, to Bath, and so to Bristol, Exeter and South Devon. Swindon is the chief locomotive and carriage factory of the company A branch runs from Swindon by Purton and Minety to Cheltenham, Gloucester and South Wales, and through Oxford to Worcester and Birmingham, and so to all parts of the north and east of the island. From Chippenham a line is made, called the Wilts, Somerset and Weymouth, by or near Bradford and Trowbridge to Westbury, Warminster and Frome, and from Westbury there is a branch line to Salisbury, known as the Salisbury and Bristol line. A line from Reading to Hungerford, and thence to Marlborough (by a branch line) and Devizes, joins the main line at Holt junction near Melksham. A branch from Chippenham to Calne is called the Calne Railway, and is worked by the Great Western Railway Company. The Midland and South Western Junction railway has a line from Cirencester through Cricklade, Swindon, Marlborough and Andover, to Southampton Docks. The South Western line runs from Basingstoke through Andover to Salisbury, and thence by Dinton and Tisbury to Yeovil, Exeter and the West of England. A branch from Salisbury, through Romsey to Bishopstoke, connects Salisbury with Gosport, Portsmouth and the South Coast line, and by boat to Ryde Pier, and another line connects Salisbure with Weymouth, Dorset.

Wiltshire has in the north three great lines of canal. Thy Thames and Severn Canal skirts the north border, passing by Cirencester, Cricklade and Lechlade. The Kennett and Avon Canal passes through the middle of Wilts, by Hungerford, Devizes and Bradford and near Trowbridge, to Bath and Bristol. The Wilts and Berks Canal joins the above south of Melksham, and then is itself joined to the Thames and Severn Canal, by a branch called the North Wilts Canal between Cricklade and Swindon. North Wilts is thus well provided with canals. South Wilts is almost destitute of canal service.

The average yearly rainfall for the whole county of Wilts may be taken at about 30 inches yearly, which is less than that of the adjoining districts on the south and west. Daily measurements of the amount of rain are made at fifteen places in the county, and from the results published in "Symons' British Rainfall," we learn that in 1878 (an unusually wet year) most rain (40¾ inches) fell at Corsham, and least (27 inches) at Landford. The line of chalk downs intercepts the southerly and south-westerly winds, which are usually warm and moist, and, chilling them, causes some of their moisture to descend as rain; still the rainfall is not so great as in Dorset to the south, or in Devon and Cornwall further west, because the winds have already parted with some of the aqueous vapour in passing over those counties before they reach Wiltshire.

The absorbent nature of the rock causes the surface of the chalk country to be almost dry, but by deep wells water of excellent quality, though of considerable hardness, may everywhere be obtained.

The north and north-west parts of Wilts belong to the oolite formations, and the rest to the chalk. The line separating these two divisions may be taken through Swindon, Calne and Westbury. A small portion of oolite comes in at the south-west, between Semley and Tisbury.

The chalk district is divided into two by the vale of Pewsey, or that in which the heads of the Salisbury Avon rise, and which belongs to the greensand. The northern chalk district is that of Marlborough Downs, and the southern that of Salisbury Plain. The southern formation is broken by three faults where the chalk has been laid bare, the upper valleys of the Salisbury Avon, the Wiley and the Nadder. Many of the hills on the Downs are very high, Inkpen Beacon, where the borders of Berks, Hants and Wilts come together, is the highest chalk hill, being 1,011 feet high. The Salisbury downs or plains form a high bleak ground, with scanty grass, and unpeopled, except in the valleys of the rivers, where the towns and hamlets lie close together.

On one of the hills at Alton Barnes is the figure of a horse of vast size, cut into the chalk, which can be seen at a great distance. There is a similar figure of a horse on the side of Bratton hill, near Westbury: these are generally supposed to be of Celtic origin. At Cherhill, between Calne and Malmesbury, is a similar figure, but executed in modern times.

The greensand forms a broad strip skirting the chalk, by the south of Swindon, near Calne, Devizes, Market Lavington, Westbury, Warminster and Mere: it likewise crops out in the valley of the Nadder, between Hindon and Swallowcliffe. South and south-east of Salisbury we find beds of the Hampshire plastic clay, Kimmeridge clay, oolitic freestone, coral rag, calcareous grit, Oxford clay, cornbrash and forest marble, belonging to the upper, middle and lower oolite, crop out in strips beyond the greensand, forming the west and north-west of the county: these have many quarries of building stone. There are mineral springs in the Oxford clay. The hills in general do not rise above 400 feet high; but the highest, Alfred's Hill, near Stourhead, is about 800 feet high.

In South Wilts and North-East Wilts there is tillage only in the dales. The great downs are grazed by sheep, though in some places they have been broken up for tillage. North-West Wilts has a subsoil of broken stone, with clay or reddish chalky loam lying upon it: here are richer soils, with much corn land, meadow and dairy ground; the grazing is for cows and oxen, and much cheese is made. The curing of bacon is carried on largely, principally at Calne, and many thousand pigs are slaughtered yearly. There is little market gardening.

Wilts yields limestone and freestone, chalk, marl, brick-earth, corn, oxen, cheese, sheep and wool.

Iron ore was raised in 1884 to the extent of 62,234 tons, valued at £12,446, and there are works for smelting at Westbury; the quarrying of freestone is a considerable industry, 113,957 tons being procured, valued at £28,489.

Wilts was formerly a great seat of the clothing trade, but this has much fallen off, though in and around Bradford are many mills and looms: Trowbridge is the head of the broadcloth weaving, which is carried on there, at Bradford, Westbury and Melksham; also wool dyeing. At Salisbury some cutlery and hardware are made. At Melksham there are looms for hair-cloth weaving and sacking and cocoa-nut fibre works. At Chippenham broadcloth and silk are woven. Silk-throwing is carried on at Mere and Warminster. At Malmesbury silk ribbon is made. Ropes and sacking are made at Marlborough. Flax-spinning, silk-throwing, bed-ticking and cheese-cloth weaving are carried on near Mere. At Wilton are carpet works. At Devizes portable engines are extensively made, and tobacco and snuff manufactured. There are malting and brewing in all the large towns. Altogether, the trade of Wilts is large, though it cannot rank with the great manufacturing districts.

Wiltshire is in the Western circuit, has one court of quarter sessions and is divided into 15 petty sessional divisions, in the province of Canterbury and mostly in the diocese of Salisbury, except the deaneries of Chippenham, Cricklade and Malmesbury, which are in that of Gloucester and Bristol, in the archdeaconry of Bristol. The other part forms two archdeaconries; Sarum, with the sub-deanery of Sarum and rural deanery of Wilton, deaneries of Amesbury, divided into Amesbury and Alderbury portions; Chalk, Chalk and Tisbury portions; Wyly, Wyly and Heytesbury portions; and Wilts, with the deaneries of Avebury, Avebury and Cannings portions; Marlborough, Marlborough and Pewsey portions; and Potterne, Potterne Enford and Bradford portions. The civil parishes are 340 and parts of seven other

The municipal boroughs are, Calne, population in 2,474; Chippenham, 1,352; Devizes, 6,645; Marlborough, 3,343; Salisbury, 14,792 and Wilton, 1,826. Other towns are Bradford-on-Avon, 4,922; Cricklade, 1,700; Dorchester, 3,378; Malmesbury, 3,370; Melksham, 2,178; New Swindon, 17,678; Trowbridge, 11,040; Warminster, 5,40 Westbury, 6,014, and Wootton Bassett, 2,237. Many of the towns are very well built, and with good churches and town buildings. Salisbury is well known for its cathedral. There is a large college or grammar school at Marlborough and grammar schools in the large towns. There are no watering places or towns of resort, other than for the purposes of business. Swindon has large works of the Great Western railway.

Wiltshire seems to take its name from Wilton, the town on the Wiley: it was first held by the Britons. The Romans under Vespasian, took the country and built many towns and laid out roads. Sorbiodunum (Old Sarum) seems to have been of some note. The West Saxons fought with the Britons many battles and in 501 Cerdic beat their king Nathan-leod; it was not, however, till about 577 that they drove the Britons from South Wilts. In 591 there was a great slaughter of the Welsh at Wodensbury, or Wanborough near Swindon. In 715, Ina, King of the West Saxons and Cholred, King of the Mid-English, fought at the same place. In 871 King Alfred fought with the Danes at Wilton and was beaten; in 878 they burned Chippenham, but afterwards beat them at Eddington. In 995 the Danes from East England overran North Wilts, and again in 1003 1006, 1010, 1015 and 1016. In the Parliamentary wars there was a battle in 1643 on Roundway Down, and the castles and towns of Salisbury, Marlborough, Devizes, Malmesbury, Ludgershall, Warminster and Wardour were besieged.

There are a great many antiquities in Wilts, whereof some are British, some Roman and some Saxon. STONEHENGE is a circle of rough stones on Salisbury Plain, and there is another at Avebury, or Abury.

WANSDYKE is a great earthern wall, with a ditch on the north side, stretching across Wiltshire for nearly 20 miles from Bath to Marlborough. Old Ditch, 11 miles long runs from Knooke to Durnford. Grimsdike and Bokerley dike are south of Salisbury, and together about 12 miles long.

Of the camps are Ogbury, near Stonehenge, and another near Ogford; Whitesheet hill; Winklebury, or Vespasian's camp, near Amesbury; Liddington Castle, on Beacon hill near Chiseldon; Purton camp; others on Eastern hill, Pewsey hill; Battlesbury; Bishopstrow; Yarnbury castle, near Fisherton Delamere; East Castle and Bilbury near Wiley; Whitesheet Castle, near Mere; Barbury near Broad Hinton; Castle Combe, Shrewton, near Orcheston Chisbury, near Little Bedwin; Redhorn, near Wilford Castle Rings, near Donhead St. Andrew; Chisenbury and Lidbury, near Batshill; Soldiers' Ring, near Berwick Ditch; Clearbury Ring, near Oldstock; Scratchbury Camley and Knooke, near Heytesbury; Oldbury, in Codford St. Mary; Clerbury Camp, in Downton; Cherhill, with white horse cut on the down; Whiten Hill, near Colerne bridge Deverill; Groveley, near Rolston; and Whitsbury. There are few topographical relics of the Warings, Pictsh or Danes.

There are other buries, or barrows, at Casterley, Bratbury Hazlebury, Silbury, Alderbury, Tisbury, Whistbury, Stanbury, Wilbury, Bury Hill, near Purton, Strawbury, Sidbury, Fosbury, Rowbury, Bury Court, Banbury, Clatbury Busbury, Bluebury, Chiselbury, Upperbury, Chitterbury Buryscroft, Long Barrow near Tilshead, Long Barrow near Tidcombe, Long Barrow near Edington, Silver Barrow White Barrow, Kill Barrow, Handbarrow, Ell Barrow Twinbarrow, Kingbarrow, Bowls Barrow, Heytesbury, and Knook Barrow; Knighton Long Barrow, Durrington Giant's bury, near Easton.

The Roman settlements include Marlborough, Imber bury, Heytesbury, Amesbury, Westbury, Wanborough Goldborough, Brokenborough, Woodborough, Pitterborough, Oldborough, Rowborough, Bradford, Clifford Endford, Wilsford, Manningford, Woodford, Durnford, Bulford, Ford, Wivelsford, Endford, Stowford, Stoford, Dunford, Wishford, Stapleford, Langford, Barford, Ingford Deptford, Axford, Dodford, Malford, Somerford, Slaughford, Quemerford, Clatford, Iford, Britford, Blackford Milford, Warneford, Maidford, Landford, Stratford, Playford, Allenford, Bourton, Burcombe, Overton, Oyton Idover, Over Street, Oare and Stoneover.

There are remains of the feudal castles of Devizes, Old Sarum, Castle Coombe, Farley, Ludgershall and Malmesbury; of the abbeys of Malmesbury, Laycock and Kingswood; of the priory of Bradenstoke and the nunnery Kington St. Michael. The finest building is Salisbury Cathedral. Bowood, Longleat Wilton, Charlton House urhead, Clarendon Park, Tottenham Park, Longford tle, Corsham House and Trafalgar House are among the s of the nobility.

GEOLOGY OF WILTSHIRE.

the magazine of the Wiltshire Archæological and Natural story Society (vol. xiv.) we have a list compiled by Mr. Whitaker of 169 papers, &c., by 89 authors which relate the geology of Wilts. The whole of the surface has been pped by the officers of the Geological Survey (Messrs. stow, Aveline, Hull and Whitaker), and the northern tion of the county is described in a "Survey Memoir," Professor Ramsay. Of local workers we must name ssrs. Cunnington, C. Moore, G. P. Scrope, C. J. A. yer, T. Codrington, R. N. Mantell, J. C. Pearce, the Rev. B. Brodie, Professors Buckman and Rupert-Jones; whilst our knowledge of the fossils we are largely indebted to . Wright, Lycett, and Woodward, Professors Morris, E. bes, Milne-Edwards, Bell, &c. Unfortunately these works scattered over numerous and expensive scientific publi- ions, as the volumes of the Palæontographical Society, Quarterly Journal of the Geological Society, the "Geo- cal Magazine," the "Wiltshire Magazine" above referred &c. Recently Mr. Hudleston and the Rev. J. F. Blake e written a valuable account of the Coralline rocks, and latter gentleman has also described the Kimmeridge y

he recent deposits near Salisbury which contain such resting traces of the early existence of man have been gently worked by Dr. Blackmore and others, and their nds" are to be seen in the Blackmore Museum at Salis- y, which contains a splendid series of the tools and pons both of prehistoric man and of modern savage tribes comparison. The excellent work entitled "Flint Chips," ten by Mr. E. T. Stevens, gives a full account of this irable collection. In the adjoining rooms of the Salis- y and South Wilts Museum there are some fine speci- s of local fossils. At Devizes, geological collections may een in the museum of the Literary and Scientific Insti- n and in the museum of the Wiltshire Natural History ety. At Marlborough College, the School Natural His- Society is also doing good work.

he rocks which form the county of Wilts belong mainly he Secondary or Mesozoic formation: they run across county in broad irregular bands, which have a general of direction or strike from north-east to south-west: incline or slant or dip to the south-east, not lying now zontally as they did when they were originally deposited ome sea-floor, but tilted up towards the north-west, hat the edges of a number of successive rock-beds are le, forming the irregular bands we have mentioned e. As the lowest strata are certainly the oldest or first ed, it follows that those rocks which we find in the north- of the county, about Bradford, Malmesbury &c. are of most remote geological age, for as we try to follow across the strike in a south-easterly direction, we find pass under newer beds, which in turn pass under the , while the chalk is itself overlain by the Tertiary strata e south-east corner on the edge of the New Forest.

describing the strata we shall commence in the north- with the oldest beds, and then take the others one by in ascending order, finally treating of the alluvial and surface deposits which occur irregularly over the e area.

t, first looking broadly over the entire county, we note it may be divided into two regions, whose wide differ- in appearance, agriculture, and population is entirely g to geological causes. The first of these lies in the -west, and includes about one-third of the county: it level or undulating surface and a south-easterly slope; district of oolitic limestones and clays, and the chalk pment forms its boundary. The remainder of Wilts— uthern and eastern parts—is mainly formed of chalk, e breezy downs and long level treeless plateaux have a ctiveness which instantly reveals to the discerning eye ature of the rock of which they are composed.

e heights above sea-level of a few points determined by Ordnance Survey are, Highworth Church, 442 feet; lade Church, 297 feet; Wootton Bassett Church, 424 Christian Malford Church, 187 feet; Chippenham h, 184 feet; Corsham Church, 303 feet; Warminster Hall, 388 feet; Tower or Downton Hill, 445 feet; ury Cathedral, 153 feet.

E LIAS.—The liassic strata only enter Wiltshire in the ne west, running up the valley of the Box Brook from ord by Ditcheridge to a little beyond Colerne. Ditche- stands on the Middle Lias; but the hard band called Rock-bed" is here very thin, while a few feet of blue which lie upon it belong to the Upper Lias, the beds thinning out greatly in this direction. The junction Lias with the sands of the Oolite above is marked by wet ground, caused by the springs which are thrown out along the top of the impervious clays.

THE OOLITE.—This great assemblage of strata has received its name from the fact that some of the beds of limestone which it contains have a structure like the roe of a fish: it consists of an alternation of beds of sandstone, limestone and clay, which, as a whole, attain their maximum development in Gloucestershire, where they form the Cotteswold range. As the oolitic strata are followed in a south-easterly direction, they become greatly attenuated, as has been shown by Professor Hull; still in Wiltshire they are of a very respectable thickness.

LOWER OOLITE.—Midford Sands.—These are transition or passage beds connecting the liassic and oolitic formations. They contain liassic ammonites, as A. bifrons, A. opalinus, &c. and oolitic bivalves, as Hinnites abjectus, Trigonia striata, &c.; as Professor Phillips remarks, "before the liassic life had come to an end, the oolitic life had begun." The Midford Sands are of a yellow tint, and contain concretionary masses of limestone called "sand-bats;" they occur resting upon the Lias along the sides of the valley of the Box Brook, and are here about 40 feet in thickness.

Inferior Oolite.—This is a buff-coloured sandy limestone, under which lies a rubbly bed full of corals. "It occurs at Elmhurst and Upper Shockerwick, and runs up the sides of the Box valley nearly to Slaughterford: from near Box it stretches through Ashley Green and Bathford to near Bradford." It is well exposed in the bank of the canal opposite Limpley Stoke, and in a gully near Charlcombe church, where it is about 25 feet thick. At Limpley Stoke and Beechen Cliff the Inferior Oolite is almost entirely composed of corals, with various species of such shells as Trigonia, Ostrea, &c. Thus the small portion of this stratum which enters Wilts, possesses neither the thickness nor the qualities which elsewhere (Cotteswolds, Ham Hill, &c.) make it such a valuable building stone.

The Fullers' Earth.—This is a bed of blue and yellow clay, from 60 to 100 feet thick; in the lower portion it contains bands of limestone, the "Fullers' Earth Rock." It can be traced by Bonner Down and Ashley Wood to beyond Slaughterford, and then returns on the opposite side of the valley past Box. The characteristic fossil is a small oyster named Ostrea acuminata. The position of the bed is rendered visible at a distance by the way in which the superincumbent beds of Great Oolite have in places slipped down over the clay; the water which issues plentifully at the junction has lessened the adhesion, and produced the catastrophes. The Fullers' Earth proper is a hydrous silicate of alumina; it is "an unctuous clay, usually of a greenish-brown or greenish-grey colour, sometimes blue: it is opaque, soft, dull, with a greasy feel and an earthy fracture: it yields to the nail and affords a shining streak; it scarcely adheres to the tongue, and falls into a pulpy, impalpable powder when placed in water, without forming a paste with it." (Bristow.) It occurs in veins from 18 inches to 3 feet in thickness, and was formerly largely dug for fulling at the cloth mills, but it is not now worked.

The Great Oolite.—This division, which is also known as the Bath Oolite, furnishes perhaps the most famous building stone in England. It does not occupy much of the surface of Wiltshire; from near Limpley Stoke and Corsham we can trace it to Yatton Keynell and Castle Combe: it is again exposed in the valley which runs east and west by Great Sherston, and we again find it (this time brought up by a fault) on the east of Tetbury. The thickness of the Great Oolite varies from 100 to 200 feet; the upper beds are blue limestones, weathering white when exposed to the atmosphere, and so hard as to have been largely used for mending the roads; below these come the fine oolitic freestones which furnish such valuable building material. At Corsham the stone is worked underneath higher strata (forest marble) by means of shafts (sometimes 70 feet deep) and tunnels; the underground quarries here are perhaps the largest and best worked in the kingdom. Box Hill yields a stone of a very superior quality as to fineness of texture, called Scallet. "The absence of fossils renders the stone more valuable as a freestone, as it then yields more readily to the saw and to the chisel; when fossils are abundant the stone is best adapted for rough building purposes, such as walls and the foundations of houses." (H. B. Woodward.) When first removed from the quarry the stone is soft and moist, and easily carved or sawn, but as it dries it hardens and becomes an excellent hard white stone. Of fossils, univalve shells, such as Nerinæa Voltzii, Purpuroidea Morrisii, &c., and many bivalves, as Trigonia costata, Tancredia brevis, &c., are abundant, especially in the upper limestones.

The Forest Marble (with Bradford Clay).—The strata which own this name occupy a considerable surface area in the north and west of Wiltshire. From Bradford-on-Avon and Corsham (where they are well exposed in the railway cutting), they run northward to Tetbury, and then turning north-east form a tract some 5 or 6 miles wide, on which stand the villages of Ashley, Crudwell and Kemble. The strata are a variable series of shelly limestones, sands and clays, about (Fig. 91) 60 feet thick near Tetbury, but thickening as they are followed southwards. Near Bradford a thick mass of clay, the Bradford Clay, is locally developed in the lower portion of the Forest Marble. It is a pale grey clay about 40 feet thick, containing a little carbonate of lime and enclosing thin slabs of brownish limestone and sandstone; a fossil called the Pear Encrinite (Apiocrinites rotundus) is abundant in the Bradford Clay; its fragments are called "coach wheels" by the quarrymen. The large slabs of coarse limestone furnished by the Forest Marble proper, are, according to Professor Buckman, "of great value for forming the sides of piggeries and cattle sheds. The smaller pieces broken up form a very durable material for road-making, and some of the thicker blue-centred slabs are used for building purposes. As a soil the Forest Marble is usually poor, but capable of great improvement by draining and cultivation." The remains of the oldest known British Crab (Palæinachus longipes) were found by Mr. William Bury, in the Forest Marble near Malmesbury.

The Cornbrash.—This is a rubbly, pale-coloured earthy limestone, about 20 feet thick. We can trace it between Trowbridge and Semington, and round Great Chalfield and Atford; from Corsham and Chippenham it runs by Kington, Hullavington and Malmesbury to Charlton and Pool Keynes. At Rodborne it is quarried for rough building stone. The fossils are numerous, and include Ammonites Herveyi, Avicula echinata, &c. Numerous villages occur along the outcrop of the Cornbrash, as it is a water-yielding stratum; it furnishes a good corn-growing soil.

MIDDLE OOLITE.—The Oxford Clay (with Kelloway's Rock).—This formation consists of blue clay, weathering yellow near the surface, and here attains a thickness of about 500 feet. Near its base is a fossiliferous bed of calcareous sandstone called Kelloway or Kellaway's Rock, either after the village of the latter name near Chippenham (Woodward), or because it occurred in pits belonging to a man named Kelloway (Ramsay). The Oxford Clay extends from Bradley and Melksham to Christian Malford; then between Wootton Bassett and Malmesbury the outcrop is 7 miles in width, and so it continues by Purton Station, South Cerney, and Cricklade, towards Lechlade; sections are exposed in the cuttings of the Great Western Railway, and in brickyards near Malmesbury and at Minety station. The Oxford Clay forms a stiff, heavy soil, difficult to cultivate and mostly in permanent pasture; the old Forest of Braydon stood on it, and there are still many woods. Of fossils the large flattish oyster-like shell (Gryphæa dilatata) is abundant, ammonites and belemnites are also plentiful. In making the railway cutting near Christian Malford, about 1840, many fossils were found, including some new forms of cephalopods, which were described by Mr. Pearce under the name of Belemnoteuthis; even the impressions of their soft parts were wonderfully preserved. Remarkable branches of some coniferous trees from the Oxford Clay of this locality have been figured by Mr. Carruthers in the "Geological Magazine" (vol. vii.); he there remarks that it would be very desirable if foliage or fruit could also be found.

The Coral Rag.—The thick beds of clay we have just described were probably deposited in a moderately deep and tranquil sea. After the accumulation of a great thickness of mud, an elevation of the sea-floor accompanied by a clearing of the waters made the conditions fit for the growth of coral reefs. In the Coral Rag we have a bed of rubbly oolitic limestone, full of the remains of corals and about 30 feet thick: it is accompanied by beds of sand and calcareous sandstones, termed the Upper and the Lower Calcareous Grit. Near Westbury a bed of iron-ore (hydrated peroxide) has been largely worked; it occupies a narrow strip of ground running north and south near the railway station, and the bed of ore is from 11 to 14 feet in thickness. In 1877 there were raised 79,176 tons of iron-ore, valued at £19,784, but in 1879 the amount had fallen to 47,623 tons, valued at £9,525. Ostrea deltoidea is a very common fossil here. At Steeple Ashton, many fine corals, such as Thecosmilia annularis, are found, mostly on the surface of the ploughed fields; at Seend the Lower Calcareous Grit is well exposed where the furnaces for the iron-ore stand. From this point we can follow the beds by Westbrook to Calne, and thence by Hillmarton and Purton to Highworth. At the latter place the total thickness is about 100 feet, and the sections are exhibited where the beds are quarried for building stone. Spines and plates of a sea-urchin (Cidaris florigemma) are very characteristic of the Coral Rag. Physically this bed forms a ridge or escarpment rising about 200 feet above the plain of Oxford Clay; by its decomposition it produces a light sandy arable soil. At Calne specimens of a new genus of sea-urchin (Pelanechinus) which possesses a flexible test have been found by Mr. Keeping.

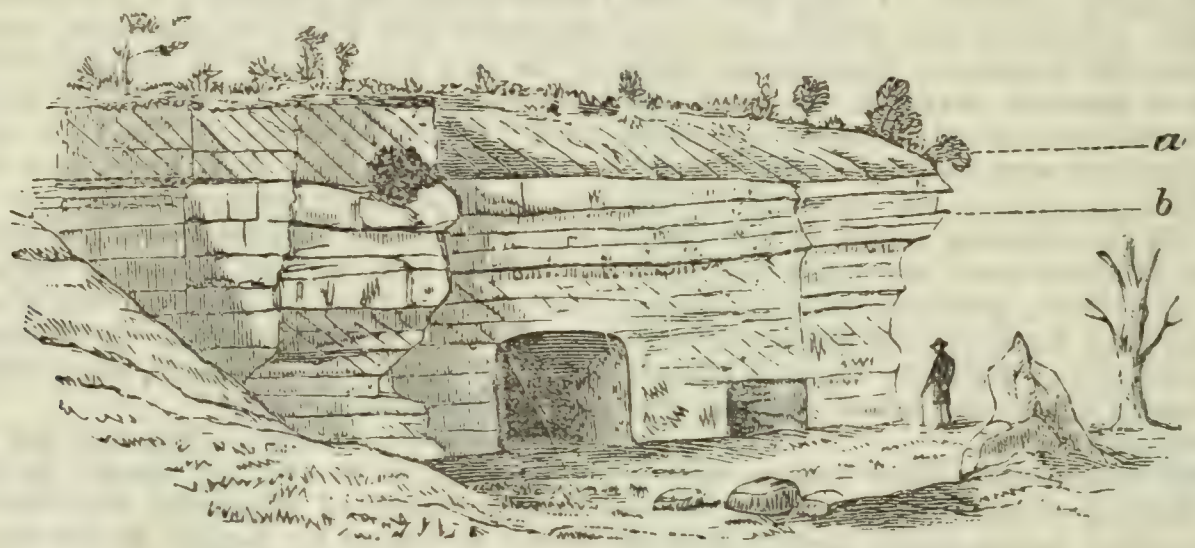

Fig. 91. Quarry at Yatton Keynell, near Corsham, a Forest Marble. Fissile shelly oolite, resting obliquely on the Great Oolite; 4 feet.
b Great Oolite (upper zone). Regularly bedded massive shelly limestone; 7 feet.
c Great Oolite (lower zone). Shelly oolite, full of false bedding. The upper part coarse; the lower affording very fine building stone, which is followed underground; 16 feet.

UPPER OOLITE.—Kimmeridge Clay.—Between Selley, Sedghill, and Knoyle Common, we find a bed of fish-shaly clay, about 65 feet thick; we can trace it again to the north-east, between Westbury Station, Worton, and Ilkington; it is then overlapped and concealed by newer strata, but we recover it again at Olney Marsh, and find it thickens northward to 500 feet at Swindon, where its outcrop is also broad, occupying all the ground between Swindon on the east and Wootton Bassett and Stratton St. Margaret's on the west. There are large brick-pits in the Kimmeridge Clay at Swindon; here Ammonites biplex is common in a bed of sandstone, and limestone nodules occur; Ostrea deltoidea is another common fossil. In these pits in 1874 bones of enormous extinct reptiles (Omosaurus, &c.) were found, which were extracted and removed with great skill by Mr. W. Davies, of the British Museum, and have since been described by Professor Owen.

Portland Beds.—Strata of this age are exposed in three separate areas in Wiltshire. At Chilmark and Tisbury, in the valley of the Nadder, about 12 miles west of Salisbury, there are large quarries in a siliceous limestone, of which Salisbury Cathedral and Wilton Abbey were built. At Tisbury about 61 feet of stone are seen in the quarries, and the beds here contain beautiful yellow crystals of sphene of barytes (sugar-candy stone). A coral (Isastræa oblonga) which has been converted into flint and chert, is also plentiful at Tisbury. In the valley east of Worton and south of Pottern sandy beds of the same age occur. Lastly, in the stone quarries at Swindon we see about 8 feet of yellowish Portland stone, underlaid by sands 25 feet thick; there is an outlying mass round the village of Bourton.

The Portlandian Beds are a marine shallow-water series indicating an upheaval of the oolitic sea-bottom.

Purbeck Beds.—Strata of this age occur at two points only: at Teffont Evias, Chicksgrove, and Chilmark Chinks slabs of a thin compact limestone are raised for tiling; at Swindon we see in the stone quarries about 10 feet of fresh-water marls and limestones of Purbeck age, which have yielded to the diligent researches of Mr. C. Moore, than eighty species of fossils, including teeth of mals, bones of the oldest true frog, together with s and seeds, and such fresh-water shells as Paludina Bithynia. They thus show a continuation of that aval of the oolitic sea-floor which we have already noted describing the Portland Beds, and which finally ted in the formation of a continent occupying part of is now the Atlantic Ocean.

COCOMIAN (OR LOWER CRETACEOUS) FORMATION.—the continent just referred to a great river flowed east-s, the deposits in whose estuary constitute the Hastings s and Weald Clay of Kent, Surrey and Sussex: of the ings Sands a small outcrop has been mapped by the ogical Survey at Catherine Ford on the Nadder.

wer Greensand.—The sandy beds of this age are from 30 feet thick; they commence on the south at Poul-Green, near to which is an outlier at Seend, where a h of Lower Greensand rests on Kimmeridge Clay; here ntains a rich bed of iron ore, which has been largely ed. The outcrop broadens between Rowde, Bromham, Bowden Hill, but soon narrows again to a band about a ter of a mile wide, which can be traced by the dryness e ground through Blackland, Corton, and Swindon rvoir. At Sands Farm, east of Calne, a bed of very and white quartz sand has long been worked, and is ed to great distances for domestic purposes. Fossils canty in the Lower Greensand, but the curious shell as Lonsdalii has been found. The beds are evidently rine littoral deposit, and indicate subsidence.

E CRETACEOUS FORMATION.—The lowest division of retaceous beds proper is termed the Gault. It is a blue clay, full of small spangles of mica, and occasion-t contains calcareous concretions, septaria, and phos-c nodules; it varies in thickness from 80 to 140 feet, an be traced continuously, as a band of low ground at se of the chalk escarpment, from Dilton by Westbury, ton, Heddington, Cliffe Typard, Wroughton, to Wan-gh Marsh and Hinton Mill. It is worked for brick-ng at several points along this line. The Gault is along both sides of the Nadder Valley, at Donhead Sutton Mandeville on the south side, and at Dinton on rth, but is absent at East Knoyle.

Upper Greensand is in thickness equal to the Gault. grey or brown sand, speckled with green grains. and ining irregular beds of sandstone and chert. From sbury it passes eastwards by Charlton and Berwick hn to Barford St. Martin; then turns west by Knoyle, ng the chalk by Warminster and Westbury, and then ng like a bay into the chalk past Pewsey and Milston rbage. From Devizes the outcrop narrows greatly gh Cherhill, Compton Bassett, Wanborough, and Little n. Many echinoderms (sea-urchins) have been found s formation in the neighbourhood of Warminster.

Chalk.—The well-known pure white earthy limestone we call "Chalk" occupies a larger area in Wiltshire ll the other strata put together. From Cranborne in the south it stretches over Salisbury Plain, and asses north-east by Marlborough; its total thickness about 800 feet, in which the following sub-divisions traced. At the base we have a bed called Chloritic about 6 feet thick; it is of a pale yellow colour, with grains of glauconite and phosphatic nodules. Next the Chalk Marl (locally called Malm), or Grey Chalk, 50 feet thick; springs issue from the top, but in er these become so dried up as to be without water for s together; shark's teeth are common, with Ammonites s and other fossils. Above this we have the Lower or Chalk-without-flints, about 300 feet thick; it is than the Upper Chalk, and of milk-white or creamy The Upper Chalk, or Chalk-with-flints, is about 400 ick; the layers of flint which mark the planes of g form a conspicuous feature in pits in the Upper and enable us at once to distinguish it from the beds

Fossils are common, mostley rounded sea-urchins, s Ananchytes ovatus, Cidaris, Micraster, and Galerites, emains of sponges and Ventriculites.

een the Upper and Lower Chalk is a hard bed which hitaker has named the Chalk Rock: it is a hard coloured chalk with layers of green nodules, is well , breaks with an even fracture, and rings under the r; sections are exposed near the top of the road-on the northern side of the Pewsey Valley, about 4 outh-south-west of Marlborough, also at Leigh Hill, the top of Whitesheet Hill, where it is about 3 feet

Chalk forms a bold escarpment facing west and in North Wilts "the unequal denudation of the nd soft chalk forms a striking feature, especially viewed from the north-west and west. The hard ising abruptly out of the high and broad plateau of t chalk, the bare greasy sides and tops of the former st strongly with the cultivated plains of the latter; and while the plateau of the Lower Chalk rises and falls in gentle undulations, interspersed with small streams, the Upper Chalk is cut up into numerous ridges and valleys, and is nearly destitute of water." (Aveline.)

The "balks," or "linchets," or terraces which run along the slopes of the chalk escarpment, are due to the down-wash of soil by rain.

The Upper Chalk forms a white land, with a scanty covering of soil and a short sweet turf; the beech and box grow well upon it, and it affords pasturage for great flocks of sheep; much of it, however, has of late years been brought under cultivation. The great expanse of this rock, which is about equally divided between Hants and Wilts, forms what Pennant calls the "great central Patria of the chalk," the centre whence all the ranges of this rock traversing our island diverge.

There are many pits or quarries where the chalk is worked to burn into lime. "At Bishopston Down, near Warminster, enormous blocks of crystalline carbonate of lime, one of which weighed 50 cwt., were cut into slabs for mantel-pieces. Calcareous spar also occurs in a chalk-quarry at Nook, near Heytesbury, in blocks less both in number and size." (Conybeare.)

At Cherhill, east of Calne, a "White Horse" has been formed by cutting away the turf on the chalk escarpment.

Microscopical examination shows chalk to be composed of the minute shells of animals called foraminifera; it was formed by their slow deposition on the bed of a deep ocean.

TERTIARY PERIOD.—EOCENE FORMATION.—Though the beds we are now about to describe rest upon the chalk, there intervenes a period of time to be reckoned perhaps in millions of years. For during this interval the whole life of the globe had had time to change: not one species of animal or plant is common to the chalk and to these Eocene beds which rest upon it, and such a change could only have been accomplished in a vast period of time. The Eocene strata of England lie in two basins, viz., the London Basin and the Hampshire Basin; outliers only of the former occur in Wilts, but of the latter the main outcrop enters the south-eastern extremity of the county.

Hampshire Basin.—On each side of the chalk ridge called Dean Hill, about 5 miles south-east of Salisbury, we find a narrow band of the Woolwich and Reading Beds—unfossiliferous plastic clays and mottled sands. On these rests the London Clay, forming the Earldom Woods, Bentley Wood, &c. Then we get the Bagshot Sands, forming Hamptworth, Landford, and West Wellow Commons, with an outlying patch at Alderbury and West Grinstead.

London Basin.—Capping the hills round Great and Little Bedwin, outliers of the divisions of the Eocene strata occur. The Reading Beds and London Clay are here very thin, not more than 12 to 15 feet each in thickness, so that we are close to their original western termination.

THE DRIFT OR SURFACE DEPOSITS.—In the counties south of the Thames, no clear evidence of glacial action has yet been made out, and it seems probable that this district was above water when icebergs came sailing over the submerged more central portions of our island. The brick-earths of the Marlborough Downs, the clay-with-flints often found upon the chalk, and the flint gravel and quartzose gravels which are seen lying on the Oxford Clay are of very dubious and uncertain age; the gravels and alluvial deposits which border the present streams are, however, of much more recent formation, and form the last or newest of the geological series.

The Druid Stones, Sarsens, or Grey Wethers are huge blocks of a siliceous sandstone which are strewn in great numbers over the surface of the Chalk. The circles of Stonehenge and Avebury are mainly formed of these stones, the inner circles at Stonehenge, however, are of greenstone; similar, Professor Ramsay says, to some of the Silurian rocks of North Wales. The Grey Wethers are probably the relics of a bed of sandstone contained in the Bagshot Series (Eocene), which formerly stretched much further to the west than they do at present.

PREHISTORIC MAN.—Wilts is rich indeed in the remains of races of men of whom no written records exist. The earliest traces of man's presence in this district consist of certain roughly-shaped flint implements found in gravels on the sides of the valleys of the Avon, Wiley, &c. at Bemerton, Fisherton, Milford Hill, Lake, Ashford, Britford, Downton, &c. These gravel-beds are from 40 to 100 feet above the present level of the rivers, a fact which alone marks their great age, since the river has, since their formation, deepened its valley to that extent. These rough tools belong to Sir John Lubbock's Palæolithic Stone Age. Of much later date, and showing marks of great progress, are the elegantly fashioned and skilfully chipped stone implements of the Neolithic Age—the celts, chisels, scrapers, arrow-heads, knives, &c., which have been found scattered on the surface in so many localities in Wiltshire, but more especially at Avebury, Durrington, Everley, Roundway near Devizes, Stonehenge, Upton Lovel, West Kennet. Wilsford, and Winterbourn Stoke. In the mounds or barrows —prehistoric burial-places—which stud the Chalk Downs in such numbers, Sir R. C. Hoare found numbers of such objects, which are noted in his magnificent work on "Ancient Wilts." All or most of these stone objects were the work of men who lived in this country long before the time of the Romans—of men who were ignorant of the properties of metals.

Then we have the grand megalithic structures of Stonehenge and Avebury, and Silbury Hill, a miniature mountain which covers about 5 acres of ground and rises to a height of 130 feet: these structures, too, have usually been assigned to Druidic (i.e. pre-Roman) times, but Mr. Fergusson has of late years claimed for them a date about 520 b. and believes that the purpose was to commemorate the twelve great battles in which King Arthur overthrew for a time the Saxons, but these are questions which belong rather to Archæology than to Geology.

which compose Stonehenge have been lately investigated by Prof. Maskelyne; the outer circle is composed of "sarsen stones"—compact quartzose rocks from the Tertiary strata; the "altar-stone" is a grey sandstone or micaceous grit resembling the Old Red Sandstone of the Mendip Hills or Frome; 29 of the stones which form the inner circle may be referred to the igneous rock called diabase; three others are hornstones, and one is a siliceous schist.

SBURY is a parish, formerly a market town, gives name to a hundred and union, situated in a alley on the river Avon, 4 miles north-west from station on the South Western railway, 8 north from ry and 88 from London, in the Southern division county, petty sessional division of Salisbury and ury, Salisbury county court district, rural deanery of ury Amesbury portion, Salisbury archdeaconry and The church of St. Mary is an ancient structure and stone, apparently Norman, having chancel, ts, nave of three bays, south aisle, square central 5 bells and clock; it was reopened after extensive December, 1853: the north transept has a chapel east and a double piscina: the south aisle has two : the chancel has a stone credence supported by els: there are 656 sittings. The register dates from r 1579 of baptisms, and 1599 of marriages and The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, with e, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, l since 1876 by the Rev. Arthur Whitmarsh Phelps orcester College, Oxford. Here is a Wesleyan A cemetery chapel was built and an acre of land in 1860, as an addition to the churchyard, at the sole expense of the late Sir Edmund Antrobus bart.; date of consecration, May, 1860. There is a charity, founded by Richard Harrison in 1725, derived from 21 acres of land at Allington, for apprenticing poor children who are not receiving parish relief. This was a Roman settlement, and its present name is by some derived from Aurelius Ambrosius, a king of the Romano-Britons. Vespasian's Camp is to the westward of the town, and is intersected by the road to Stonehenge: it occupies the summit of an eminence on the banks of the Avon and is surrounded by a single ditch and vallum, inclosing an area of 39 acres.

The celebrated remains of a supposed Druidical temple, called STONEHENGE, are situated on Salisbury plain, 2 miles west of Amesbury and within the parish: it consists of two circles of monolithic blocks of sandstone and greenstone, some retaining their original upright position and others prostrate. A nunnery was founded here by Queen Elfrida to expiate the murder of King Edward: it was once in such repute that Queen Eleanor, widow of Henry III. retired to it, and there, in the year 1284, took the veil, as did also, subsequently, the Princess Mary, daughter of Edward I. carrying with her a train of thirteen noble young ladies. In a finely timbered park, and on the site of the old nunnery, stands the handsome Abbey, the residence of Sir Edmund Antrobus bart. D.L., J.P. : it was once the residence of the Duke and Duchess of Queensberry, the patrons of the poet Gay. On the further bank of the Avon, opposite the abbey, is a lawn called the Diamond, in the centre of which is a large cave, where it is stated Gay wrote several of his celebrated fables. Sir Edmund Antrobus bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk. There are many downs in the neighbourhood affording good pasturage for sheep, of which large flocks are kept, The chief crops are barley, wheat and oats. The area is 5,895 acres of land and 41 of water; rateable value, £4,530; in 1881 the population was 1,127, including 69 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

COUNTESS, half a mile north; WEST OR LITTLE AMESBURY, 1 mile west; and RATFYN, 1 north-east, are hamlets. On the downs are numerous barrows.

ANSTY is a village and parish, encompassed by downs on every side except the south, 2 miles south-by-east from Tisbury station on the Somerset and Yeovil branch of the South Western railway, 13½ west from Salisbury, 7 north-east from Shaftesbury and 95½ from London, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Dunworth, Himdon petty sessional division, Shaftesbury county court district, Tisbury union, rural deanery of Chalk Tisbury portion, archdeaconry and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. James is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style, and was restored about the year 1842: it is cruciform and has a chancel and nave, with two transepts, north porch and a small western belfry containing one bell: the church was thoroughly restored in 1878 and a vestry added, at a cost of about £500, which was subscribed by the whole of the diocese: there is a stained east window in memory of the late Rev. J. H. Sayer: the church will seat 290 persons. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a donative, in the gift of Lord Arundell of Wardour D.L., J.P. who has declined to appoint. The parish is served voluntarily by the vicar of Tisbury. Nearly adjoining the churchyard, to the north, is a pile of old buildings, supposed to have belonged to the abbey of Shaftesbury. There is a charity of £10 yearly for apprenticing boys born within the limits of the parish, left by Sir Anthony Hungerford, in 1694, and Cox's charity of £10 or £12 for educating poor children in the parish, derived from land. A pleasure fair is held on the 26th and 27th of July. Wulfhall or Wolf Hall, 2 miles south-west, was the ancient seat of the Seymours, or St. Maurs, one of whom, Sir John Seymour, who died in 1536, had three children, all of whom became remarkable—viz.: Jane Seymour, Queen of Henry VIII.; Edward Seymour, the Protector, beheaded; and Admiral Thomas Seymour, who married Katharine Parr, widow of Henry VIII. and was subsequently also beheaded; Jane Seymour was married at Wulfhall in 1536. Henry VIII. and his entire court visited Wulfhall in 1539. The hall is now occupied by Lord Charles Frederick Brudenell-Bruce J.P. The Marquess of Ailesbury is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk and green sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley &c. The area is 9,680 acres; rateable value, £19,095; the population in 1881 was 1,834.

Parish Clerk, Henry Ryman.

East and West Grafton are hamlets in this parish, formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish in 1844, together with MARTEN, WILTON, WEXCOMBE, WOLFHALL and part of KINWARDSTONE. CROFTON, 1 mile south-west (here are pumping works connected with the Kennet and Avon canal), and WEXCOMBE (the property of William Corbin Finch esq. M.D.), 3 miles south, are included in this parish. The church of St. Nicholas, at East Grafton, a modern stone building in the Norman style, the site and endowment of which were given by the Marquess of Ailesbury, consists of chancel, nave of four bays, west porch, aisles and western tower containing 2 bells: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1844. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value about £300, in the gift of the vicar of Great Bedwyn, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Edward Murray Salmon M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge. There is a Wesleyan chapel at Wilton and a Primitive Methodist chapel at Wexcombe. The principal landowners are the Marquess of Ailesbury, Charles Fanshawe esq. and Dr. Finch. The area is 1,707 acres; the population in 1881 was 808.

tern division of the county, Potterne and Cannings hund-d, petty sessional division, union and county court rict of Devizes, Avebury rural deanery Cannings portion, ts archdeaconry and Salisbury diocese. The church of Mary, built about A.D. 1190-1200, is a large and beauti-cruciform structure, in the Early English style, consisting chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, transepts, chantry pel, south porch and a central tower with turret, and mounted by a spire of the 15th century, 230 feet in ght and containing 8 bells: the chancel is large, and has coined ceiling: the organ, erected in 1809, at a cost of guineas, and since enlarged, and the yearly interest of o to keep the instrument in order and pay the organist, e bequeathed by Mr. William Bayley, a native of this ge, who circumnavigated the globe with Captain Cook, died in 1809: there is a very curious chair in the church, unknown: the church was restored in 1883-4, at a of about £3,600, under the direction of Mr. Charles E. iting, architect, of Marlborough, when the floors were id, the interior refitted and reseated with oak benches, red by Mr. Harry Hems, of Exeter, no two being alike:

church of St. Mary is a stone structure of early foun-
, but was to a great extent reconstructed in the 14th 15th centuries: the portions of the early building at it existing are the Norman doorway of the chancel, dates from the latter part of the 12th century, and the north porch and adjoining part of the nave wall, erecte early in the 13th century: it consists of chancel, nave of five bays and aisles, with square embattled western tower containing a fine peal of 8 bells and clock with inscription 240 years old: the chancel has been restored by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, when an old piscina was discovered: on the tomb of Christopher Willoughby, in the chancel, is an epitaph, setting forth that he was most happy with his first wife, but unhappy in his second nuptials: in 1882 and 1883 the church was excellently restored, at a cost of £1,600 under the direction of Ewan Christian esq. architect: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1573. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £240, including 132 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Herbert Ault, of Lichfield College. The rectorial tithes and advowson were formerly attached to the prebend of Bishopstone in Salisbury cathedral; the Ecclesiastical Commissioners now own the lands allotted by the award of 1814 to the prebend in lieu of tithes. A Primitive Methodist chapel was built in 1886 with class room adjoining; it is of brick with freestone facings and has sittings for 250 persons. There are several charities belonging to this parish, viz:—interest of money in Consols, left by Mr. T. Goddard for the education of the poor children of both sexes; for keeping in repair the tower of the church and bells; for paving walks about the churchyard, left by Christopher Willoughby esq. in 1681: also £16 yearly, left by Gilbert Keate esq. to be divided amongst four poor persons; a field at Purton and £300 for the school, left by the Rev. Thomas Coker, prebendary and vicar; and £180 for a poor person, left by Stephen Goddard. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England are the lords of the manor, and owners of the Salisbury Bishopric estates, and of the estate formerly attached to the prebend of Bishopstone. The soil is chalk; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are grass, wheat and turnips for sheep. The area is 3,385 acres; rateable value, £3,3; the population in 1881 was 606.

BRADFORD-ON-AVON.

DFORD-ON-AVON is a parish, market and union town, ated on the Somersetshire border, on the river Avon and he Kennet and Avon canal, with a station on the Wilts, erset and Weymouth branch of the Great Western way, 102 miles from London by road and 100 by rail-, 8 south-east from Bath, 3 north-east from Trowbridge, uth-west from Melksham, 12 west from Devizes and 12 h from Warminster, in the Western division of the ty, hundred and petty sessional division of Bradford, l deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry ilts and diocese of Salisbury. The town is built within cess, on the abrupt declivities of the sides of a rocky and the most ancient parts are laid out in a succession rraces, rising one above another to the very summit of ill, from one of which, called TORY RANK, the views ery picturesque, and the prospect is extensive and htfully varied; in the valley below stands the fine old h church; near to its base, after emerging from be-n the hills, flows the river Avon, its banks dotted with ries: on the west, and under the side of Grip Hill, is a old barn, called "Barton Barn," formerly belonging to "Grange," or principal farm of the Abbess of Shaftes-: on the east is the greater portion of the town, while e foreground may be seen the village of Hilperton, and town of Trowbridge, with Westbury Down and the shire hills in the distance.

adford means the "broad ford" over the river, and was ited as early as the time of the Roman occupation of part of the country. The town was a place of some equence even in the time of the West Saxons, being ite of a monastic institution, founded by St. Adhelm 5, of which some remains still exist; it was given to nunnery at Shaftesbury in 1001. In 954 St. Dunstan elected Bishop of Worcester at a synod held at Brad-; this town was privileged to send members to Parlia-, but this right was not exercised more than once: a on of the town still bears the appellation of the Borough adford, but whether it was ever incorporated and had parate jurisdiction seems to be unknown. The river is here crossed by two bridges, and on one that crosses in the centre of the town is a square stone building, having a roof somewhat in the form of a pyramid; the supposition is, that this was erected for the purpose of levying contributions for the support of an hospital which stood near the bridge, or that it was a chapel containing the image of the patron saint, before whose shrine the pilgrim might pay at once his devotions and his alms. Near the same, to the west, is the ancient ford by which the town was approached; at times it can be crossed dry-shod. The other bridge, called Barton Bridge, with four arches, is lower down the stream.

Bradford is considered to be a very pleasing, exceedingly picturesque and very healthy town, well defended from the north and east winds, while all impurities, after passing down its sloping streets, are immediately carried off by the waters of the Avon: the houses are mostly gable-fronted, built with stone, and roofed with the same material. The streets are generally narrow and irregular, but, in some instances, they have been widened and improved. In 1834 the town was lighted with gas by a company, and on the 15th of July, 1839, the "Bradford Town Improvement Act" received the Royal Assent.

Waterworks, the property of the Town Improvement Commissioners, were erected in 1883; the adits, situated at Avoncliffe, yield a copious supply of pure spring water, which is pumped thence into the reservoir at the top of the hill between Winsley and Bradford: the town is supplied by gravitation: the cost of the works was £12,000, and they were opened in October, 1883, by Miss Hobhouse, daughter of Sir Charles Parry Hobhouse, the lord of the manor and then chairman of the Improvement Commission.

The church of the Holy Trinity is an ancient and handsome structure in the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular styles; it consists of a chancel, nave of five bays, north aisle, chapel and south porch, and has a square western tower, with an embattled parapet, and surmounted by a low short spire of disproportionate dimensions: the tower contains a fine peal of 8 bells, and a set of chimes playing the tunes of "Hanover" and the "Sicilian Mariners' Hymn" every three hours, and having a clock: there are many old tombs, of which the most remarkable are in the chancel: on the south side, within a niche, is the mutilated recumbent figure of a knight in armour: on the north side is a niche containing the full-length effigy of a lady: some stained windows were presented many years ago by John Ferret esq. a native of this town; about 1855 a handsome east window was put in, and more recently the stained west window of the tower; and a stained window has been placed at the east end of the north aisle to the memory of Mr. Emanuel Taylor, his wife, and only daughter, he having been churchwarden over twenty years: in 1888 a stained window was placed in the north aisle to the memory of Canon Rich-Jones, the late vicar: there are sittings for 650 persons: in the churchyard, opposite the door on the south side of the chancel, is a very ancient tomb, highly decorated. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a vicarage, the tithes of the benefice being commuted at the yearly sum of £391, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Bristol, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Sydney Garbett Collisson, surrogate.

Christ Church is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1843: the church, a building of stone, was erected in 1840, at Bearfield, within the town: it is in the Perpendicular style, consisting of a chancel and nave, south porch with a western tower, lofty spire and one bell: the chancel was added from designs by the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott R.A. at a cost of £2,000: there is a stained east window and eight others: in 1884 the church was re-seated with oak benches, the floors re-laid with patent wood blocks, and the approaches laid with Godwin's encaustic tiles: the work was carried out under the direction of the architect, Mr. John Oldred Scott M.A. London: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1842. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, endowed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of the vicar of Bradford, and held since 1873 by the Rev. Richard Umfraville Lambert M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The population in 1881 was 1,756.

The Dissenting chapels are:—Baptist, founded 1704, with 400 sittings; Baptist, Zion, founded 1823, 400 sittings; Countess of Huntingdon's, Bearfield, founded 1798, 250 sittings; Congregational, founded 1740, 400 sittings; Wesleyan Methodist, founded 1818, 600 sittings.

A Cemetery of 4A. 8P. situated in the Holt road, was formed in 1856 at a cost of £3,000, with two mortuary chapels; it is under the contral of a Burial Board of nine members.

In the Frome road are two almshouses—one for four poor men, founded by John Hall esq. the last of an ancient family who had been inhabitants of this town since the reign of Edward I.; his arms, crest and motto are over the doorway—motto, "Deo et pauperibus" (for God and the poor), date 1700: the other, for poor old women, was rebuilt from designs by C. S. Adye esq. in 1868 and added to by the same architect in 1878: it is a very ancient charity, endowed with lands in the neighbourhood that once belonged to the monastery of Shaftesbury; this charity is in the patronage of the lord of the manor, and has, by the erection of a fourth almshouse, been restored to its original size: four old women enjoy the benefits of this endowment. The charities for distribution amount to £96 yearly.

John Curl, of Turleigh, by will dated 1703, gave £30 yearly out of the rents of his estate at Churton to be distributed on the Feast of St. Thomas to 120 poor persons, 5s. each, of Bradford, Winsley, Leigh and Woolley; Mrs. Elizabeth Tugwell left in 1799 £100 stock, the interest to be given to 40 old and infirm persons; Samuel Cam left in 1792 £100 stock, the interest to be given to the poor in bread; Edward Thresher left £100 stock, which is now increased to £200; John Strawbridge left £400 in Consols, the interest of these charities to be given to the poor in crowns and half-crowns.

Bradford was at one time the central town in the west of England for the manufacture of superfine broadcloths: this business is known to have been carried on here to some extent in the time of King Edward I. Edward III. invited clothworkers to repair to England out of foreign parts, to whom he granted sundry privileges. Anthony Methuen, the ancestor of the present Lord Methuen, of Corsham House, Wilts, was the first to improve upon the old mode of cloth-making by introducing into Bradford, in 1740, operatives from Flanders, in order to manufacture superfine broadcloth.

The market days for provisions are Saturdays; but for corn, cattle and cheese every alternate Tuesday. The fairs are—one in Bradford on Trinity Monday, for cattle, horses and peddlery; one also at Bradford Leigh, on the first Monday after the 24th August, except when Monday falls on the 24th, then on that day.

A handsome Town Hall and Market House, built in the heart of the town, have attached, and forming part of the design, justice rooms and dwellings for the police; the structure is of Bath stone, and the style is Elizabethan, designed by Thomas Fuller esq. architect, late of Bath. The Town Commission and Urban Sanitary Authority's offices are in this building. The Armoury of the 1st Wilts (E Company) Volunteers, which was embodied in 1860 and now numbers about 92 efficient members, is in Silver street. The Fire Brigade consists of a superintendent and 12 members, who have a manual engine.

There are many good residences in and about Bradford, also some large and ancient mansions; one amongst the number was once the residence of the notorious Duchess of Kingston, and is known as Kingston House; it was beautifully restored, in strict accordance with its original design, by the late owner, S. Moulton esq. J.P.

There are also the remains of many ancient edifices, both of a private and also of an ecclesiastical character, in and about the town, such as the Saxon Chapel, Priory, Chantry House, Tory Hermitage, besides others, which from process of time, their dilapidated condition, or partial incorporation with other buildings, cannot now be specified by name, their foundations, as well as their subsequent history, likely being lost. Of these the Saxon Chapel is perhaps the most interesting; it is probably the only perfect church of its date in England, and is believed to be the ecclesiola, or little church, attached to the monastery before mentioned as founded by St. Adhelm, and which is mentioned by William of Malmesbury as standing in his time, A.D. 1120, although the monastery has been destroyed: it owes its discovery to the archæological intelligence of the late vicar, the Rev. William Henry Rich-Jones M.A. who, standing on Tory Bank about 1858 and looking down on the roofs of the town, observed that the outline of the three roofs of a very old building was of an ecclesiastical character, and that the roofs were apparently those of the chancel, nave and porch of a church; at that time the building was so surrounded by other structures and by the accumulation of the dirt of centuries, to the height in some places of six feet above the foundations, that it was difficult to form an accurate judgment on the subject: the building has now been purchased and vested in trustees, and the surrounding objects cleared away, and the proportions of this old building fair displayed: the existing porch is on the north side, but there appears to have been a similar one to the south, so that the church was cruciform; the workmanship is of rude character; the most striking feature is the great height of the building as compared with its length and breadth: the nave is 24 feet by 13, and 25 high; the chancel is 13 feet by 10, and 18 feet high; the porch is 10 feet square and 15 feet high; and the opening from the chancel to the nave is rather a doorway than an arch, being 3 feet wide and 10 feet high; some progress has been made in the restoration of the church and the reconstruction of the archways which has been assisted by the fact that many of the original stones have been found, either embedded in the rubbish or worked into the other buildings, and these have been replaced in their original positions; it has been so far restored as to admit of service being held in this ancient building.

The Hermitage or Tory Chapel stands on Tory Rank, the highest part of the town, and in 1869, being then in a very dilapidated state, passed into the hands of T. B. Sanders esq. of the Priory, who proceeded to restore it, with great taste and judgment and at considerable expense, and it was opened again for public worship in 1871: this building is mentioned by Leyland in his "Itinerary" in 1533, and it is also mentioned by Aubrey as follows:—"On the top of the north hill, above Mr. Methwyn's, is the finest hermitage I have seen in England, several roomes and a very neat chapell of freestone." Previous to the restoration the interior was excavated to the depth of 10 feet below the floor: the east window remains as it was in Aubrey's time, with the exception of new mullions and repaired tracery; the other windows have been designed from parts of the former windows, pieces of which were found when the ruins were explored: the niche on the south side of the east window has been simply restored, and the one on the north side, with the exception of the shaft and the canopy, is new, being made to correspond with the other: the north porch is also new, except the holy water stoup, which was found in excavating the interior of the chapel: the cross over the eastern window has been restored, the upper portion of it having been found among the ruins: the building is cruciform, and almost immediately above the Lady Well, from which circumstance it has been called St. Mary's Chapel, in addition to the name of Tory Chapel: there is a subterranean passage from the Hermitage, conjectured to have led to the old building (which belonged to the Abbey of Shaftesbury) in the churchyard and Barton Farm: the east window contains three lights, having Our Saviour in the centre, St. Peter on the one hand, and St. Paul on the other, above which is the monogram I.H.S. with angels on either side: the window in the south porch represents St. Joseph, with the infant Jesus

its the Lamb and Book, with the Seven Seals.

NORTH BRADLEY is a parish comprising the tithings of North Bradley and Southwick, in the Western division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Whorwellsdown, union of Westbury and Whorwellsdown, county court district of Trowbridge, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury : North Bradley is 2 miles south from Trowbridge, 3 north-west from Westbury, 7 north from Warminster and 7 north-east from Frome. The river Biss flows through the southern portion of the parish. The church of St. Nicholas is of mixed architecture, built of stone, and consists of chancel, nave of six bays, transepts and five aisles, south porch and an embattled western Norman tower, with clock and 6 fine toned bells : it was restored about the year 1863 at a cost of nearly £2,000, raised by subscription : the east and west windows are stained: it contains a magnificent monument to Lady Emma, mother of John Stafford, archbishop of Canterbury, erected in the year 1480, and a mural monument to John Trenchard, the author, ob. 1723, and several to the Long family, Henry Long, 1727, Ellen Long, 1752, and William Long, 1773: there is a remarkable old Gothic font : there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a vicarage, tithes commuted at £640, with 4 acres of glebe land and residence, in the gift of Winchester College, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Wyndham Arthur Scinde Merewether M.A. of Oriel C ege, Oxford. St. Thomas', Southwick, a chapel of ease St. Nicholas, is an iron building, consisting of chancel ma turret with a bell : there are 120 sittings. There are pe for Baptists ; also an asylum for four poor persons, w th annual allowance of £10 each, founded in 1810 by arc deacon Daubney. A charity of £3 was given b Mr Rachael Long, in 1781, to six poor families of this ris W. H. Long esq. M.P., D.L., J.P. of Rood Ashton H se, lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Win est College, John Trask esq. William Roger Brown e J. Highfield, Hilperton, and W. H. Laverton esq. of Light House, Westbury. The soil is clay ; subsoil, clay. The ar is 4,036 acres, which is principally pasture ; rateable val of North Bradley, £5,834, and of Southwick, 5,4 ; t population in 1881 was 1,886—887 in Bradley an 999 Southwick.

Southwick tithing is 1½ miles west. Southwic Ma Court was the residence of Archbishop Stafford ; s su rounded by a moat : the ruins of the chapel may ill traced : it is now occupied as a farm house by Mr. Fillis Reakes.

Parish Clerk, Andrew Horton.

BROMHAM is a parish, 4 miles north-west from Devizes, 4 east-by-north from Melksham, and 3 north-east from Seend railway station, in the Eastern division of the county, Potterne hundred, Devizes petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Avebury Cannings portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and Salisbury diocese. The ancient houses of the village, built of timber and brick, are ranged irregularly on one side of an unpaved street, facing the church on the east and south. The church of St. Nicholas, is a building of stone in mixed styles, principally Early English and Norman, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, chapel or chantry, south porch and an embattled central tower with spire, 110 feet in height, and containing 6 bells, hung at a cost of £600, and a clock: the chapel has a stained east window, erected in memory of John Bayntun Starky, who died in Australia, by his widow here also is a full-length recumbent figure of a knight armour, much defaced, supposed to represent an ancestor the Bayntuns, formerly of Spye Park; there are also many other monuments to the same family, during the reign Henry VII. and subsequently; in the churchyard rest the remains of Thomas Moore, the poet, who died at Sperry Cottage, long his favourite residence, in the portion of Calne parish, taken out of this parish, 26th February 1852 the west window, by Constable, of Cambridge, was erected by subscription to his memory, and a plain stone slab marks the place of his repose and that of his two children; Mrs. Moore, relict of the poet, was also buried here in June 1865, and is commemorated by the stained east window the interior was restored and renewed, and a stone pu nd reading desk erected about 1843; the chancel was en-rely rebuilt in 1865, at the cost of the rector: there are oo sittings. The register dates from the year 1566. The ving is a rectory, yearly value from commuted tithe rent-harge £820, gross £940, including 60 acres of glebe, with esidence, in the gift of and held since 1857 by the Rev. dward Betenson Edgell M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford. Here are Baptist, Wesleyan Methodist and Primitive Metho-ist chapels. On a gentle declivity, at the lower part of the illage, is an almshouse of six tenements, with a Latin in-cription recording its foundation in the year 1612 (10th of ing James), by a member of the Bayntun family. Here is brewery. Rowdeford House is a modern building, but is ow (1889) unoccupied. In 1864 the Bayntun estates were old, the purchasers being the Crown and the late Major ohn W. G. Spicer, the father of Capt. John Edmund Philip picer J.P. of Spye Park, who is lord of the manor. The soil sand; subsoil, red sand. The chief crops are wheat, arley and peas; the latter are extensively cultivated for the ath market. The parish contains 3,593 acres; rateablo alue, £5,532; the population in 1881 was 921.

Part of this parish, including Spye Park, is in the ecclesiastical parish of Chittoe.

ROUGHTON GIFFORD is a parish 3½ miles rth-east from Bradford, 5 south from Corsham, 2 west m Melksham station, and 98¼ from London, in the stern division of the county, Bradford hundred, petty sional division and union, Melksham county court dis-t, rural deanery of Potterne Bradford portion, arch-conry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of Mary is an ancient structure of stone in the Perpendicu-style, having a chancel, nave, aisles, south porch, and are western tower, having immense buttresses, a turret l an embattled parapet and containing 2 bells: the aisles separated from the nave by pointed arches, the pillars which are different—three on the south side being angular, and four on the north cylindrical, with an ovolo ulding; these, with other parts of the church, show that ancient structure of Norman times once existed here, that the present building was erected probably in ry VII.'s reign, some of the old materials having been ked in: there is a curious old brass to Robert Long: church was thoroughly repaired and restored by sub-ption in 1878 at a cost of £2,000 and has 250 sittings. register dates from the year 1665. The living is a ory, gross yearly value £450, with 32 acres of glebe and dence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 7 by the Rev. Alan Brodrick M.A. of Exeter College, ord. Here are Wesleyan and Particular Baptist chapels. e is a charity of Ann Harding and Betsy Paradice, who on July 11, 1786, £20 yearly to educate 20 poor boys or s (this is given to the National school), and £7 yearly to istributed at Christmas between 10 poor persons who not received parish relief: Mrs. Purbeck left by will yearly, to be distributed at Christmas, in sums of 5s. , to the most deserving and necessitous families. A full and complete history of the parish of Broughton Gifford was written by the Rev. Prebendary Wilkinson and published in 1859 in the "Wiltshire Archæological and Natural History Magazine." There was a Roman station near some ground called Bradleys, where many coins of the later empire have been found. There are three houses of some architectural pretensions in the village—Monkton, the old house at the Cross, and another on the common; the first is said to have been erected by the Earl of Hertford, son of the Lord Protector Somerset, to whom the manor of Monkton came on the suppression of the Priory of Monkton Farleigh; the second was built by Sir John Horton, lord of the manor, in the year 1629; and the third by William Harding about the year 1700. Sir Charles Parry Hobhouse bart. J.P. of Manor house, Monkton Farleigh, is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is fine mould, lying on gravel, which rests on clay, with a subsoil of a heavier clay. Agricultural industry in this parish consists principally of dairy farming, and it is said that some of the best land in the county for grazing purposes is the pasture at Monkton by the side of the river Avon. The parish contains 1,694 acres, of which 260 are arable and the remainder pasture; rateable value, £4,729; the population in 1881 was 613.

Charities.—The Church lands consist of 3A. 3R. 0P. in Northfield and 3R. 34P. in Abberd, the rents of which are paid to the churchwardens, and applied by them for church purposes. Finamore's charity consists of a rent-charge of 40s. yearly on certain property in High street, Calne, formerly the Crown inn; this sum is now paid to the treasurer of Calne Boys' National school. Dr. Swadden's charity comprises a rent-charge on certain property at Great Horwood and Singleborough, in the county of Bucks, of £3 14s. yearly, distributed by the four aldermen of the borough "for the use of the poor of honest conversation" in the parish of Calne, as directed in the original bequest. Smith's charity consists in a share in the profits of property situate in the parish of Longney, in Gloucestershire, and is applied for the benefit of the poor of the parish. The Baydon lands comprise 27A. 3R. 16P. situate in the parish of Baydon, Wiltshire, rents distributed by the churchwarden and overseers. Foreman's charity, established by Robert Foreman for educational purposes, is represented by the rent of ground called Clotly, in the parish of Calne, which is paid to the trustees of the Boys' Middle Class school. John Bentley's school: this charity is represented by a rent-charge of £35 8s. 4d. issuing out of certain lands at Beanacre, Melksham, a rent-charge of £14 11s. 8d. issuing out of two closes called Hilly Leases, and other property at Hardenhuish, Langley Burrell and Chippenham, Wiltshire, and the master's house, schoolroom and premises at Calne. Two exhibitions, respectively of £20 and £18 yearly, at Queen's College, Oxford, were given by Sir Francis Bridgman, for the benefit of boys born in the county of Wilts, and educated in this school. Woodroffe's charity consists of a rent-charge of £2 10s. payable out of certain lands in Tytherton, Chippenham, Langley Burrell and Hardenhuish, given for the purpose of teaching five poor boys: this is now paid to the treasurer of the Calne National Boys' school. Dr. Townson's almshouses consist of 8 houses situate at Calne, in which persons appointed by the vicar and churchwardens reside free of rent. Sir John Ernle's charity, founded by Sir John Ernle kt. formerly of Whetham, near Calne, who conveyed property at Calne to the vicar and churchwardens for the maintenance of "four poor women, widows of the parish of Calne." The Town Stock charity is represented by £214 invested in £2¾ per cent. Consols, the dividends whereon are annually distributed among the poor of the parish. The Charity in the Calne Savings Bank: this charity consists of £76 invested in the above bank, and the interest is annually distributed by the churchwardens among the poor of the parish. Weeke's charity: the original property of this charity was sold in 1846 for £450, which sum was invested in £3 per cent. (now £2¾) Consols and the dividends thereon are annually distributed among poor widows of the parish of Calne. Hungerford charity: the founder of this charity was Walter Hungerford esq. of Studley, in Calne parish, who, in 1845, granted an annuity of £20 out of certain messuages, lands and heriditaments at Calne, Blackland and Heddington, "for the recovery, support or maintenance of any sick, wounded or maimed people of the said parish of Calne:" this charity is distributed "from time to time" by the minister, churchwardens and two members of the Calne Town Council. National Boys', Girls' and Infant schools: this charity was endowed by Thomas Stratton Stretch in 1847, with the proceeds of 10 shares in the Calne Gas and Coke Company: in 1855 the Right Hon. Hungerford Baron Crewe conveyed 31 perches of land at Stockley, in Calne parish, as a site for a school for poor children, and a schoolroom and school mistress's house have since been built thereon: in 1856 the Most Hon. Henry, Marquess of Lansdowne, conveyed to the vicar of Calne the site of the present Boys' and Girls' National schools, two dwelling-houses and gardens [illegible] and a piece of ground with the Infants' school and a dwelling house and premises in Mill street. Harris's charity: this charity consists of £1,000, bequeathed by the late [illegible] Henry Harris and now invested in £2¾ Consols, in the names of trustees, the interest on which is distributed annually by the council among the poor of the parish of Calne, in the shape of great coats, cloaks and blankets.

The old Town Hall, which stood on the Market hill, was taken down in 1882, and the site was then given to the [illegible] by the Marquess of Lansdowne to be kept as an open [illegible] for ever. A new Town Hall was erected on the site of the old Town mill, which was purchased by the corporation: the cost of the site and building was £9,365, of which £6,505 was given by voluntary subscriptions: it is a [illegible] structure in the Tudor style, and contains the Corn Exchange, Council Chamber, Assembly Rooms, Magistrates' Room, Police Station (with 2 cells), Volunteer Drill Hall and Armoury.

The most important branches of trade in this town are the two large establishments for curing bacon, belonging to Messrs. Charles and Thomas Harris and Co. Limited; this firm killed in 1888 over 100,000 pigs. Mr. Edward Arthur Maundrell has considerable agricultural engineering works. Here are two branch banks and a savings bank.

The market is on Wednesday.

Here is a Literary Institution and Free Library, supported entirely by voluntary contributions; the library contains 1,800 volumes: there is also a Friendly Society, under the patronage of the Marquess of Lansdowne; the vicar is president; also a Juvenile Friendly Society in connection with the same.

A branch navigation from Calne unites the Wiltshire and Berkshire canal with that of the Kennet and Avon, affording a convenient and extensive water-carriage to every part of the country.

On the 24th of October, 1882, a most disastrous flood occurred; the water rose to the height of 4ft. 4in. at the post office; it was supposed to have been occasioned by a most unusual storm of rain on the hills; it rose from about 6 a.m. until 1 p.m. and gradually subsided until 6 p.m. when the usual level of the stream was reached.

The principal landowners are the Marquess of Lansdowne, who is the lord of the manor, Sir John Poynder Dickson Poynder bart. J.P. and Lord Crewe.

The soil is chiefly sandy, except in the valleys, which dip into the Oxford clay.

The parish of Calne occupies a part of the middle oolite series of rocks, and contains all the members of the geological division—coral, rag, coarse sandstone, alternating with beds of clay and sand. The lower greensand and Kimmeridge clay are found on the eastern side of the parish immediately overlying the middle oolite; the Portland beds being absent and the chalk occurring in the extreme north of the parish to the east. A bed of the coral rag containing a coarse kind of freestone is worked in the town, and affords a tolerably good building stone: this bed is famous for the remains of echinidæ (sea-urchins, star-fishes &c.) and other fossils found in it. The land in the district is chiefly pasture, but not entirely so, there being a considerable portion of the sandy soil under the plough. Wheat and beans are grown on the heavier portion, and barley and roots on the lighter. The Marquess of Lansdowne has a large [illegible] let on the allotment system. The area of the parish is 7,963 acres; rateable value, £24,794; the population in 1881 was 5,194, including 81 officers and inmates in the workhouse. The population of the municipal borough was 2,474; of the local board district, 3,405.

Sexton, Henry Henley.

QUEMERFORD, 1 mile south-east; CALSTONE, ½ m. south-east, at which place is a Wesleyan chapel; BLACKLANDS, 2 miles south-east; WHETHAM, 2½ m. south; STOCKLEY, 2 south, where there is a Primitive Methodist chapel; and part of STUDLEY, 2½ north-west, with a Wesleyan chapel, are hamlets and tithings in this parish.

The ecclesiastical parish of DERRY HILL includes a portion of the parish of Calne.

CHIPPENHAM.

CHIPPENHAM is a municipal borough, market and union town and head of a county court district, and junction station on the Great Western railway, from which the branch to Calne and to Weymouth starts, situated on the river Avon, and connected by a short branch line with the Wilts and Berks canal, 93¾ miles from London, 13 north-east from Bath, 33 north-west from Salisbury, 10 north-west from Devizes, 10 south from Malmesbury, 7 north from Melksham and 6 north-west from Calne: it is in the North Western division of the county, hundred of Chippenham, rural deanery of Chippenham, archdeaconry of Bristol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol.

Chippenham is an ancient borough, and was incorporated in 1554 by charter, and a second charter was granted by King James II. in 1685; under the Municipal Corporation Act, 1882, the government is vested in a mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors: it formerly returned two members to Parliament, but under the "Representation of the People Act, 1867," it returned one only, and by the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," it was disfranchised and now forms part of the north-western division of the county. The houses are well built, and the principal street is more than half a mile long. The sanitary arrangements are under the corporation. The borough is lighted with gas from works, the property of a company, and supplied with water by the Rural Sanitary Authority.

The parish church of St. Andrew is an ancient structure, in the Norman, Early Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, three chapels, west and south porches, and a Late Perpendicular western tower, with spire, containing 8 bells and an illuminated clock with chimes: the Hungerford chapel has various memorials of the Hungerfords, and a monument to Sir Gilbert Prynne (1627); another of the chapels was dedicated to St. Catherine: the organ, which is of very ancient date, was rebuilt in 1885: the church was enlarged and restored in 1878 at a cost of £6,759 17s. 2d. and has 1,200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1578. The living is a discharged vicarage, with the rectory of Tytherton Lucas annexed, tithe rent-charge (Chippenham) £7, joint net yearly value £285, including 31 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1861 by the Rev. John Rich M.A. late student of that house, honorary canon of Bristol, rural dean of Chippenham and rector of Kellaways.

St. Paul's is a separate ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1855 out of the parishes of Chippenham, Hardenhuish, Kington St. Michael and Langley Burrell. The church of St. Paul, situated near the railway station, and erected in 1855, is a building of stone, in the Gothic style of the 14th century, and consists of a chancel, clerestoried nave of 6 bays, aisles, and a western tower with a spire 176 feet high containing clock, with chimes, and 8 bells: there are sittings for 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1855. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £50, gross yearly value £200 and house, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester d Bristol, and held since 1855 by the Rev. Augustus Strong A. of Exeter College, Oxford. The area is 1,591 acres; he population in 1881 was 1,311.

Here is a Catholic chapel, dedicated to St. Mary, erted in 1855 and has 70 sittings. There are two Baptist chs, one in High street, seating about 320 persons, and the er in the New road, erected in 1856, and has 283 sittings. he Congregational chapel, Emery lane, was erected in 6, and has 450 seats; the whole of the interior was renovat in 1889 at a cost of £300. The Primitive Methodist chap in the Causeway, was erected in 1834 and has 485 sitgs. The Wesleyan chapel, Causeway, erected in 1851, wil eat 350 persons.

The Cemetery, situated in the London road, is out 4 acres in extent, and was formed in 1855 at a co of £2,500, including two mortuary chapels; it is unde the control of a burial board of 9 members. The old Cem ry, situated in Wood lane, belongs to a company, and is in- cipally used by Nonconformists.

The Town Hall, Market, Exchange-room and buil gs, situated in High street, were erected at a cost of out £12,000, at the sole expense of the late Joseph Neel sq. of Grittleton, who was for many years member fo the borough of Chippenham, and include a hall 50 f in length, 33 in width and 19 in height, with spacious ate- rooms; the hall will hold 350 persons. The Cheese m ket, which has a frontage of stone towards the High stree ur- mounted by the old borough arms and the motto, "nity and Loyalty," was three times enlarged during the e of Mr. Neeld, at a further cost to him of from £4, to £5,000.

The market is now held on the second Friday in very month for cheese and cattle, and the fourth Friday for ttle. Wool market, last Friday in June. Corn market, very Friday. Fairs are held on May 17, June 22, October and December 11, two of which are hiring fairs and there also an annual cattle show. In the Market place is a fou ain, erected by public subscription, at a cost of £260.

The principal manufactures are Anglo-Swiss con nsed milk, broadcloth and churns; and there is a tannery.

The Temperance Hall, situated in Foghamshire, is a uild- ing of stone, comprising a lecture hall to hold 500 p ons workmen's reading and coffee rooms, refreshment om and a residence for the hall keeper: it occupies the si of a old public-house and malt-house, known as the "hit Hart," and was erected in 1863, under the superinte enc of W. J. Stent esq. architect, of Warminster, at a st £1,384.

Charities: — Thomas Ray, in 1615, left tenem s Giggin street, New Sarum, now yielding a yearly re al £15, to be given every fourth year to the poor clot rs Chippenham; Robert Gale, in 1628, gave £20 yearl to paid out of the Claypool and Brassington estates, counties of Lincoln and Derby, for distribution am g three floors which contain three rooms of equal size, t by 30 feet, with adjacent smaller ones for library and

ry. The ground floor is used as a reading room for orking classes at a nominal charge. The first floor, a us and handsomely furnished apartment, is used as a literary and scientific institution, and the second by the school of art.

A causeway, 4½ miles in length, from Chippenham Cliff to Wickhill, Bremhill (extending through the parishes of Langley Burrell, Kellaways and Tytherton), was constructed in the year 1474 by Maud Heath, who gave to certain trustees some houses and land in and near Chippenham to keep the same in repair: she is said by common report to have been a market woman who, having long felt the inconvenience of a swampy walk, devoted the savings of her life to the purpose of providing a good footing for her successors in all time to come: the trustees have extended and renewed the causeway from their surplus funds, and some years since erected an iron bridge across the Avon at Kellaways, where a raised path, upon 64 arches, exists for the convenience of travellers, enabling them in times of flood, which are frequent in this neighbourhood, to pass the stream in safety: the causeway is marked with upright inscribed stones at intervals, and a monument to the donor has been erected at Wickhill.

Æthelswitha, sister of Alfred the Great, who had a residence in Chippenham, was married here to Burhred, King of Mercia, between A.D. 870 and A.D. 880.

Lodowick Muggleton, founder of a sect of religious enthusiasts called "Muggletonians," was a native of this parish, where he was born in 1607. John Scott D.D. a celebrated divine, canon of Windsor and rector of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, was born here in October, 1638.

The parish contains several manors, of which the following gentlemen are lords:—John Carrick Moore esq. F.R.S., F.R.G.S. of Brook Farm, Cobham, Surrey, lord of the manor of Monkton; Sir John Neeld bart. M.A., D.L., J.P. of Grittleton, lord of the manors of Fowlewick and Allington; and Sir Gabriel Goldney bart. D.L., J.P. of Corsham, lord of the manors of Chippenham, Lowden, Rowden and Sheldon.

The lords of the manors are the principal landowners.

The area of the parish is 6,191 acres; rateable value, £24,901.

The population of the parish in 1881 was 5,192, including 225 officers and inmates in the workhouse.

ALLINGTON is a hamlet, now forming part of the parish of St. Paul, 2 miles north-west from Chippenham

STANLEY and STUDLEY are tithings, and are given in the ecclesiastical parish of DERRYHILL, which extends over a portion of the civil parish of Chippenham.

Sacristan and Deputy Parish Clerk of St. Andrew, James Balch; St. Paul's, Thomas Selman, jun.

CHIRTON (CHURTON, OR CHERINGTON) is a parish and village, 5½ miles south-east from Devizes and 2½ south-west from Woodborough station on the Great Western railway, in the Eastern division of the county, Swanborough hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Devizes, Potterne rural deanery Enford portion, Wilts archdeaconry and Salisbury diocese. The church of St. John the Baptist is an ancient and beautiful structure of grey stone, in the Transition Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells; the south entrance has an elaborately wrought arch, with zigzag mouldings and a series of animals' heads and other figures surrounding its outer edge: there is a piscina in the chancel and another in the south aisle: the font, which is particularly fine, and is evidently coeval with the church, bears representations of the Twelve Apostles: there are six stained windows in the church and two in the south porch; the church was restored and re-seated in 1850, and has 175 sittings. The register dates from the year 1579. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £150, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1888 by the Rev. Charles Walford M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford. The trustees of different charities hold land in this parish—the Heytesbury charity for almshouses, the Bradford-cum-Freshford charities for the same purpose, and the Froxfield charity for lay and clerical widows, also Eveline almshouses, Chu. The lordship of the manor is vested in the Heytesbury ... tees. The principal landowners are Miss Mills and Jr Chandler. The soil and subsoil are green sand. The ... crops are wheat and barley. The area is 1,858 acres; ... able value, £1,968; the population in 1881 was 340, in ... ing Conock.

CONOCK tithing is half a mile south-west, situated on the road to Devizes and contains the Manor House, an interesting residence, formerly the property of the Warriner family now occupied by William Charles Hitchcock esq.

CHISLEDON with DRAYCOT FOLIAT.

CHISLEDON is an extensive parish and village situated near the road from Swindon to Marlborough, 7 miles north from Marlborough and 4 south-east from Swindon, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Kingsbridge, union of Highworth, Swindon county court district and petty sessional division of Swindon, rural deanery of Marlborough, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury: the Midland and South Western Junction railway runs through the village, connecting the London and South Western railway at Andover with the Great Western railway at Swindon; the line is completed to Cirencester, and will be extended to Cheltenham and join the Midland railway. The church of the Holy Cross is a plain stone structure, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, and aisles, south porch, with embattled square tower with pinnacles containing 5 bells: the chancel is paved with encaustic tiles: there are several monuments and tablets; the most conspicuous belong to the families of Mellish, Calley, Browne and Crowdy: there is also a handsome stained window, erected by Mrs. John Browne to her late husband: there are 292 sittings. The register dates from the year 1641. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £200, net £150, with residence, in the gift of Captain Thomas Charles Pleydell Calley J.P. and held since 1887 by the Rev. John Henry Calley M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. There is a mission house, licensed for divine worship, for the use of residents at Coate and Snodshill, in which service is held every Sunday: it has 130 sittings. There are places of worship for Wesleyan Methodists, and one belonging to the Primitive Methodists. The churchyard was closed by an Order in Council in 1879, and a cemetery of 1¼ acres was formed in 1877 at a cost of £1,100, with two mortuary chapels; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. There is a charity of £15 a year derived from land, left in 1659 by Richard Harvey, vested in and distributed by the vicar and churchwardens on St. Thomas' day amongst twenty deserving parishioners. The principal seat in the parish is Burderop, a noble stone mansion, situate in a small park, the seat of Captain Thomas Charles Pleydell Calley J.P. 1st Life Guards, who is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Captain Thomas C. P. Calley J.P. William Edward N. Browne esq. of The Cottage, and William G. Warrey esq. The soil is chalk and the subsoil is chalk; the land is chiefly arable. The area is 4,730 acres; rateable value, £5,792; the population in 1881 was 1,173.

BADBURY is a tithing, half a mile north-east, where there is a Wesleyan chapel; BURDEROP, a tithing, 1½ miles east; HODSON, a tithing, 1 mile north-west, having a Wesleyan chapel; SNODSHILL and COATE are hamlets, 3 miles south.

CHRISTIAN MALFORD is a parish and scattered village, situated on the Avon, which runs past the churchyard, and forms the western boundary of the parish, 3 miles south-west from Dauntsey station on the Great Western railway, 6 north-east from Chippenham, 8 south-west from Wootton Bassett, in the North Western division of the county, North Damerham hundred, Chippenham petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Chippenham, archdeaconry of Bristol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol. The Wilts and Berks canal runs through the parish. The church of All Saints is a very ancient edifice of stone, in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, with lady chapel, nave of four bays, south aisle, north and south porches, the north porch being used as the vestry, and an embattled western tower 185 feet high, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 6 bells: the church was completely restored in 1881: the ancient oak screens, which divide the nave and south aisle from the chancel and lady chapel, are of considerable interest: there is also a remarkable Norman font, which is still in use: the church has sittings for about 330 persons. The register dates from 1653: the earlier register was burned in 1693, the house where the curate then lived being fired by lightning. The living is a rectory, tithe rent-charge £700, gross yearly value £900, including 110 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and held since 1881 by the Rev. James Ogilvy Millar LL.D. of Christ's College, Cambridge, hon. canon of Bristol. There is also a manor belonging to the rectory, at present leased upon three lives, and from which therefore no profit accrues to the living. Here is a Congregational chapel. Sir Henry Bruce Meux bart. J.P. of Dauntsey Manor House, is lord of the manor and nearly the sole landowner. The soil is a rich loam; subsoil, clay; almost the whole of the Irish is pasture. The area is 2,918 acres; rateable value, £[illegible]93; the population in 1881 was 777, including part of Bremhill-stoke-cum-Clack.

CHUTE is a village and parish, delightfully situated on the side of a hill, bordering on Hampshire, 13 miles south-east from Marlborough, 8 north-west from Andover and 4 north-east from Ludgershall station on the Midland Junction railway, in the Eastern division of the county, Kinwardstone hundred, Everleigh and Pewsey petty sessional division, union of Pewsey, Andover county court district, rural deanery of Marlborough Pewsey portion, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. Nicholas was entirely rebuilt by private subscription in 1871, and reopened by the bishop of the diocese 15th August, 1872: it is of flint with red brick and stone facings, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave and small south transept, south porch, with handsome embattled western tower with pinnacles and spire, and has a clock and 2 bells: there is a piscina within the communion rails and an ancient font at the west end: the chancel was entirely rebuilt in 1869, at a cost of £500, by Thomas Everett Fowle esq. J.P. of Chute Lodge, from designs by J. L. Pearson esq. R.A.: the edifice is sheltered on the south-west by a row of yew trees: there are 288 sittings. The register dates from the year 1580. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £278, including 30 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Lancelot Ridley M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. A piece of land was added to the churchyard in 1887, and consecrated by the Bishop of Sarum; in the churchyard are a water tank and pump, placed there and given to the poor of the parish by the late vicar, the Rev. Samuel Conway. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the lay impropriators. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a small chapel here. There are several bequests for the benefit of the poor amounting to £12 yearly, for fuel and clothing. [illegible] Park, the beautiful mansion of Lady Charles Wellesley, mother of the present Duke of Wellington, is in this parish; the house, which is about 100 years old, was chiefly built by Sir Sydney Medows, knight marshal of England: the park extends over an area of 428 acres. W. H. Medows esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 3,181 acres; rateable value, £1,961; the population in 1881 was 430.

STANDEN is half-a-mile east; Haydon Hill and Four Barrow Hill, where there is a large camp, 2½ miles north-east. Hon Bottom, 1 mile south-west.

FFE PYPARD (or CLYFFE PYPARD) is a village parish, 4 miles south from Wootton Bassett station south-west from Swindon, in the Northern division e county, union of Cricklade and Wootton Bassett, y in the hundred of Kingsbridge and partly in that of ade, petty sessional division of Cricklade, Swindon y court district, rural deanery of Avebury, archdea- of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury. The church of St. is a handsome stone structure of Perpendicular archi- e (late Henry VII.), consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, porch and a fine embattled western tower, with pin- , containing a clock and 6 bells: each aisle is divided the nave by an arcade of four columns: the chancel, ally of Early English work, but altered to Perpendicu- a later period, was restored in 1861 by the impropriator atron, Horatio Nelson Goddard esq. with a memorial indow to the late vicar and patron, the Rev. Edward rd, and a side window in memory of other members of nily of Goddard, to one of whom, who died in 1585, there nteresting monument of oak, still in a state of good vation: a screen of fine oak, painted in the original s, separates the chancel from the nave, and two rect- ar screens cut off the eastern extremities of the aisles: north wall of the north aisle, under a canopy, is a surmounted by a recumbent figure, supposed to be the family of Cobham, who formerly possessed the : the pulpit is of the 17th century, a good specimen orate carving: the font, an octagon, of Bath stone, a f that of Over, Cambridgeshire, was carved by the . Goddard, in 1840: a brass of about 1380, of excel- sign, embedded in stone, is laid in the north chapel, supposed to belong to the Quintin family: a monu- f costly work in varied marble fills the western end of th aisle, presenting the likeness of a carpenter named is Spackman, a native of Cliffe Pypard, who, having d considerable wealth by his trade, bequeathed the t of the sum of £1,000 to the following purposes, viz.: serving the above-mentioned monument; secondly, intaining a school for the poor children of the parish; , for the purchase of loaves of bread to be disposed of Sunday after divine service: by an Order in Council a has been issued for the future management of this : the church was beautifully restored in 1874, at a £1,400, exclusive of the chancel, which was restored ost of £1,000, defrayed by H. N. Goddard esq. the patron and lay rector: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1576. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £480, with residence, in the gift of Horatio Nelson Goddard esq. and held since 1883 by the Rev. Hungerford Goddard M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford. The free grant of Cliffe Pypard, by Edward I. was made in 1305 to Roger de Cobham, from whose descendants it came into possession of John Goddard in 1525: the advowson of the vicarage and the rectorial tithes were subsequently purchased by the above John Goddard in the time of Henry VIII. A.D. 1541. In 1686, Sarah, Duchess Dowager of Somerset, bequeathed the manor of Thornhill for the foundation of certain scholarships at Brasenose College, Oxford, and the manor of Broad Town for apprenticing poor boys of this county. Near to the village is a high and very steep ridge or cliff, from which the place takes its name. Various Roman coins have been found in the neighbourhood. The Manor House, a handsome building in the Elizabethan style, the seat of Horatio Nelson Goddard M.A., D.L., J.P. stands in picturesque grounds, presenting in every part views of hill and dale for which the neighbourhood is so remarkable. There is a Primitive Methodist chapel. H. N. Goddard esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor of Cliffe Pypard, and Brasenose College, Oxford, of that of Thornhill. The principal landowners are Horatio Nelson Goddard esq. Brasenose College, Oxford, the trustees of Broad Town Charity, Sir Henry Bruce Meux bart. the Rev. COOMBE BISSET is a parish situated on both banks of the river Chalk (Chalke or Ebele) which is here crossed by a bridge of three arches, 3 miles south-west from Salisbury, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Cawden and Cadworth, petty sessional division of Salisbury and Amesbury, Alderbury union, Salisbury county court district, rural deanery of Chalke and Salisbury archdeaconry and diocese. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a cruciform building, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles with north and south transepts, the south transept being formed out of the lower stage of the embattled tower, which contains a clock and 4 bells. The church exhibits specimens of every style of architecture, from the Transition Norman nave arcade, to the Perpendicular work in the aisle, windows and transepts: the church was restored during the incumbency of the Rev. W. Biscoe in 1845, when the old rood-screen was removed, the west front extended, the church reseated and the south porch built: the rood-screen has been lately replaced by Canon Kingsbury, the present incumbent, the old materials having been, so far as possible, made use of, and a vestry has been formed at the west end: there are about 300 sittings. The parish registers, which are imperfect, date from the year 1636. The living is a vicarage, which in the year 1885 was united to the vicarage or rectory of Homington, the joint annual value being m up by a grant from the Ecclesiastical Commissio rs £300, with a residence in Coombe Bisset. CRICKLADE is a market and union town and head of a petty sessional division, near the Gloucestershire border, with a station on the Midland and South Western junction railway, 84 miles from London, 52 north-by-west from Salisbury, 26 north from Devizes, 7 south-east from Cirencester, 8 north-east from Wootton Bassett, 4 from Purton station, 5 from Minety station on the Swindon and Gloucester branch of the Great Western railway, and 8 north-east from Swindon, in the Northern division of the county, hundreds of Highworth, Cricklade and Staple, county court district of Swindon, rural deanery of Cricklade, archdeaconry of Bristol and diocese of Gloucester and Bristol. This town is pleasantly situated in a level tract of country on the south bank of the Thames (or Isis), and is of great antiquity. The Thames and Severn canal passes to the north of the town, and is connected with the Wilts and Berks by the North Wilts canal, which passes the town to the south-west. In 1015 it was taken and plundered by Cnut the Dane, but has not been distinguished by any event of national importance since the Conquest. A high bailiff is appointed for the town by a jury at the court-leet of the lord of the manor: it was a prescriptive borough, and from Edward I. exercised the elective franchise with various interruptions till the reign of Henry VI. from which time it regularly returned two members to Parliament till 1782, when the franchise was extended to the adjoining divisions of Highworth, Cricklade and Staple, and it included 50 parishes, but by the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," it was disfranchised. The town consists of one long street, is well paved and lighted with gas by a company whose works are in Gas lane. There is a town estate called Cricklade Waylands, for paving and improving the town. Cricklade comprises two parishes, St. Sampson's and St. Mary's. The church of St. Sampson is a spacious structure of stone in the Perpendicular style: it is cruciform, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch, and a handsome square embattled tower rising from beautifully proportioned arches at the intersections, surmounted by a pierced parapet and pinnacles, on one of which is the Catherine Wheel, finely executed; it contains a chiming clock, but no dial, and 5 bells: the present vestry was formerly a chapel built by the Hungerford family: the church was restored in 1864, under the direction of the Rev. Francis Dyson M.A. the late vicar, who died in 1887, and to whom the stained west window is a memorial: there is also a memorial window in the south aisle to Rose Billinghurst, 1870: there are several ancient memorial tablets in the north aisle, the principal being to Edward Pleydell, 1675; John Nott, 1763, and John Bristow, 1788: there are sittings for 600 persons. The register dates from the year 1672. The living is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge £473, with residence and 6½ acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Henry James Morton M.A., LL.B. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The church of St. Mary is a stone building, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a low western tower containing 4 bells: there is a clock at the east end of the nave, above the chancel roof: the chancel is divided from the nave by a circular Norman arch of the 11th century, with the chevron ornament: the aisles are of the Perpendicular character of the 15th century, while the tower is Early English: there are sittings for 220 persons. The register dates from the year 1684. The living is a rectory, yearly value £225, including 51 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Gloucester d Bristol, and held since 1885 by the Rev. John McKaye A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Here is a Baptist chapel, ere d in 1852, and having 200 sittings; a Congregational ch l, built in 1878, with 300 seats; a Primitive Methodist ch l, built in 1855, to hold 250 persons; and Wesleyan ch l, built in 1870, and has 200 sittings. Cricklade and Wo on Bassett form a union, for which see Wootton Bassett. M r Henry Smyth, in 1853, gave £1,000 to the two par es for the promotion of education: it is vested in the han of five trustees for that purpose. There is also Hodge's ch ty of £5, to be distributed to ten poor householders, no e- ceiving parochial relief; and 100 acres of land were giv to the poor of Cricklade out of the forest of Braydon, when i as disafforested by King Charles II. now producing about £40 yearly, one moiety to be distributed to poor men and w en not receiving parochial relief, the other moiety to be di ed into two equal parts, one part to apprenticing childre he other to paupers. The interest of £600 to St. Samp n's and £400 to St. Mary's, also the gift of Major Smyt is laid out annually in the purchase of warm clothing fo he poor in November. Dunche's charity, consisting of l ls, producing about £23 yearly, to decayed householder not receiving parochial relief. Sir A. Hungerford's chari of £19 yearly, is divided into three parts, two whereo are taken by the parish of St. Sampson, and the remaining ird by the parish of St. Mary: the money is laid out in eat coats, which are given to the poor. Farmor's and Ba r's charity, of £53 yearly, is distributed to the second po of both parishes who are not receiving any of the other ori- ties belonging to Cricklade. There is a Lammas me w, called North meadow, of 104 acres, into which, from La as to Candlemas, the inhabitants have the right of turning eir cattle. A stone cross, which formerly stood in the pri pal street, was removed into the churchyard of St. Sampson hen the old Town Hall was taken down. There is also a one cross in good preservation in the churchyard of St. M y's parish. The Town Hall, erected in 1861, will hold 25 er- sons. In the parish of St. Mary are the remains of a p ry, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, founded in the re of Henry III. now converted into private residences; the as also a hospital dedicated to the same patron saint; me land belonging to it, in St. Sampson's parish, is still led the Spital. A market for fat cattle on the third Tues in each month is well attended; fairs have been wholly d on- tinued, with the exception of a pleasure fair on the 2 of September. The kennels of the Vale of White Horse h nds are situated here; T. B. Miller esq. is master. Sir ohn Neeld bart. M.A., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor the borough and tithings. The principal landowners a Sir John Neeld bart. M.A., D.L., J.P. the Earl of Radnor D.L. P., and the Earl of St. Germans J.P., D.L. The soil is rich loam. The land is mostly in pasture. St. Samp n's parish, which includes the hamlets of GREAT and LITTLE CHELWORTH and CALCUTT, and part of the hamlet of BRAYDON, contains 6,258 acres of land and 31 of water; rateable value, £12,461; and in 1881 had 1,203 inhabitants. St. Mary's parish contains 117 acres; rateable value, 06; the population in 1881 was 397.

DEVIZES.

DEVIZES is a municipal borough, market, union and assize town, head of a county court district, railway station and military centre, situated on the old road from London to Bath and Bristol, and nearly in the centre of the county, of which it is the secondary capital, and is the chief town of North Wilts, 88 miles from London by road, 23 north from Salisbury, 6 north from Market Lavington, 7 south from Calne, 7 east from Melksham and 20 east from Bath: it is in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of Potterne and Cannings, rural deanery of Potterne, archdeaconry of Wilts and diocese of Salisbury; and is situated on the flat top of a hill, forming a sort of table-land of considerable extent and elevation, which stretches far away to the west. The town is 500 feet above the level of the sea, and from its lofty and exposed situation is subject to winds from every point of the compass, hence the air is often cold, piercing and sharp, but dry and salubrious. The nature of the soil varies considerably from the more southern and western parts of the county; in the latter stone is abundant, while here all traces of it are lost; in this district is found the green sand, one of the beds lying between the chalk and the oolites, which is very porous and of great thickness. A vast number of fossils are found about here.

The town is of great but uncertain antiquity, some believing it to be Roman: it is not, however, mentioned in "Domesday Book," but it is thought then to have been called "Kainningham," or the chief town in the manor of "Kannings." The present name is a barbarous Anglicization of the low Latin "Divisæ," which denoted the point where the road from London to Bath passed into the Celtic district. The borough of Devizes obtained its first charter from the Empress Maud, the daughter of Henry I.; it was afterwards confirmed by her son Henry II. Two members were returned to Parliament from the time of Edward I. but by the "Representation of the People Act, 1867," it returned only one, and under the provisions of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," it was entirely disfranchised. The municipal borough is from north-east to south-west, 2 miles long, one mile broad, and comprises the parishes of St. John the Baptist and St. Mary the Virgin, part of St. James or Southbroom and part of the parish of Rowde; it is divided into North and South wards, and is governed by a mayor, 6 aldermen and 18 town councillors, who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority. The borough has a commission of the peace and a separate court of quarter sessions.

The town is situated on the Berks and Hants section of the Great Western railway, which joins the main line at Reading, and the Wilts and Somerset section at Trowbridge.

The Kennet and Avon canal (begun in 1794 and finished in 1805) winds through the valley below the town, and is carried over a hill by a series of twenty-nine locks, and, after passing Devizes on the north-west, eventually joins the river Kennet at Hungerford, thus affording means of transit for goods to the eastern and western parts of the kingdom.

The church of St. John the Baptist is an edifice of stone 126 feet long, in the Norman and Perpendicular styles, erected about 1130, and consisting of chancel, transepts, nave, aisles, two chapels east of the transepts, north and south porches, and a central embattled tower, 73 feet in height, and containing 8 bells: there are several marble monuments to the Heathcote and Sutton families: there are 1,050 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559.

The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building of stone, 132 feet in length, for the most part Perpendicular, but with some remains of Norman work in the chancel, and a fine arch at the south porch, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles 91 feet high containing 6 bells: there are 799 sittings. The register dates from the year 1669.

The living of Devizes is a rectory, gross yearly value £65, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1874 by the Rev. John Hart Burges D.D. of Trinity College, Dublin, and surrogate; the living comprises the parishes of St. John the Baptist and that of the Blessed Virgin Mary, quite distinct from one another for civil matters, but forming a united rectory, and designated as the rectory of St. John the Baptist with the chapel of the Blessed Virgin Mary annexed.

St. Peter's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1867 from the parishes of Bishop's Canning and Rowde: the church, situated on the Bath road, is a building of stone, erected in 1866, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle and vestry: the south aisle was added in 1884: there are 360 sittings. The register dates from the year 1866. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of Salisbury, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Arthur Charles Devas M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, and chaplain of her Majesty's prison. The area is 90 acres; the population in 1881 was 794.

The Catholic church, dedicated to St. Joseph, situated on the bank of the canal, and erected in 1865, is a small building in the Gothic style, consisting of nave only, and is 60 feet long and 23 feet wide: the church was restored in 1881 at a cost of £70: there are 200 sittings. Near the church is a convent, the residence of four sisters of the order of St. Joseph.

There are three Baptist chapels: the one in Market street, founded in 1780, has about 400 sittings: that in New Park street, founded in 1838, will seat 200 persons, and one in Sheep street, founded in 1851, with 650 seats.

The Congregational chapel, Northgate street, founded in 1776, has 400 sittings

The Wesleyan chapel, New Park street, founded in 1819, will seat 650 persons.

There is also a Baptist Brethren Meeting Room, High street, with 100 sittings.

The Friends' Meeting House is now disused.

A Cemetery of four acres, situated at Belvidere was formed in 1878 at a cost of £3,000 and has two mortuary chapels: a part of the cemetery is reserved for Catholic burials: it is under the control of a burial board of 27 members.

There are many charities in the town, founded for educational and other purposes. Wylde's foundation for 5 boys; Woodroffe's foundation, for 10 boys; Bancroft's foundation, for 20 boys; Eyle's foundation, for 6 boys; Imber's for girls. There are almshouses under the management of the municipal charity trustees for 8 persons; others, controlled by St. Mary's feoffees, for 22 persons; and St. John's almshouses for 16 persons, to whom money allowances are also made.

The Devizes Cottage Hospital and Provident Dispensary, Park road, was established in 1876, and contains 16 beds, and is supported principally by voluntary contributions and was enlarged in 1887 and its benefits extended to several of the surrounding parishes; the number of in-patients in 1888 was 91.

Devizes is the head quarters of the Wiltshire Friendly Society, founded in the year 1828, and which has upwards of 100 branches throughout the county: the president is Lord Nelson, and secretary Mr. David Owen: there is also a juvenile branch, founded in the year 1884.

The Market place, which occupies a central position in the town, is a large triangular space, from which the main street and several other streets diverge, some of which take a very irregular course. The town is well paved, drained and watched, and is lighted with gas, and supplied with ter by the Town Council, to whom both the gas and terworks now belong. The waterworks, completed in 79, at a cost of £11,700, are situated about 5 miles north-t of the town, in the parish of Bishop's Cannings. A ge and extensive corn and cattle market, which is the instay of the town, is held every Thursday. There is also narket on Thursdays for poultry, butter and vegetables, ich was rebuilt and enlarged in 1839, and is well supplied; November, 1862, a monthly cheese market was estab-ied, and has now become important; the markets are der the control of the Corporation. The Market Cross s erected in 1814, at the expense of Viscount Sidmouth, o was recorder of the borough for 30 years, and repre-ted it in six successive parliaments previous to his eleva-n to the peerage; it is constructed of Bath stone, and sists of a plain rectangular base, with a buttress at each gle crowned with a pinnacle and an octagonal Decorated re. This cross has obtained wide-spread notoriety in sequence of the following remarkable inscription on the t panel:—"On Thursday, the 25th of January, 1753, th Pierce, of Potterne in this county, agreed with three er women to buy a sack of wheat in the market, each ing her due proportion towards the same. One of these nen, in collecting the several quotas of money, discovered eficiency and demanded of Ruth Pierce the sum which s wanting to make good the amount. Ruth Pierce pro-ed that she had paid her share, and said, She wished she ht drop down dead if she had not. She rashly repeated awful wish; when, to the consternation and terror of surrounding multitude, she instantly fell down and ex-d, having the money concealed in her hand." In the rket place also stands a memorial to the late Right Hon. Sotheron-Estcourt, formerly member for the county, sident of the Poor Law Board, and founder of the Wilts ndly Society, consisting of a pedestal of Aberdeen granite, r 50 feet in height, on which is placed a statue of Mr. heron-Estcourt: at the base are water troughs for cattle.

he Corn Exchange, situated in the Market place, and ned on the 3rd December, 1857, is a building of stone feet long by 46 broad; the principal front is adorned n four Corinthian columns supporting a handsome cor-, and in the centre is a statue of Ceres, by Thorp, of ds, presented by Christopher Darby Griffith esq. then for the borough.

he fairs are on the 20th and 21st of April, and 20th and of October, for sheep, cattle, toys and pedlery, and are on the Green. Candlemas fair, February 14th, is held Monday Market street.

he Odd Fellows' building in Maryport street, erected at st of about £2,400, contains a large room for the meet-of the order, which is also let for public entertainments will hold about 300 persons.

ere are the extensive works of Messrs. Brown and May, ufacturers of portable engines, the tobacco and snuff ory of Messrs. E. and W. Anstie, also the breweries of srs. Wadworth and Bartholomew.

he Epiphany sessions for the county, and the Spring es are held here. The Assize Courts, in Northgate et, erected in 1835, form an important building, in the sic style, the principal front exhibiting a pedimented re, supported by four Ionic columns resting on an ele-d base, approached by a flight of steps, on either side of h are wings of considerable extent.

Government School of Science and Art has been es-shed, which is held in the Grand Jury room of the ze Courts.

he Town Hall, situated in St. John street, is a building one, with a segmental front adorned with four pillars of Ionic order; the upper storey includes the Council nber of the Corporation, the Grand Jury room, and the mbly room, which will hold 500 persons.

er Majesty's prison, situated on the Bath road, near the l, was built in 1810, and is of a polygonal shape, the rnor's house standing in the centre.

he Wilts County Lunatic Asylum, opened 19th Septem-1851, is a structure of Bath stone, in the Italian style, designs by Mr. T. H. Wyatt, architect; the site, which thin a mile of the Town Hall, is considerably above the of the adjacent valley of the Avon, though rather less an the town of Devizes itself, and is well sheltered on north-east and east by the hill of Etchilhampton, about ile distant; the asylum has been repeatedly enlarged its first erection, and will now hold about 700 patients. land belonging to the asylum consists of nearly 90 acres.

he Cottage Hospital and Dispensary, in Park road, was olished in 1872, and contains 16 beds; the number of in-nts treated during the year ended 25th March, 1889, 91, and of out-patients 290. The Hospital for infectious ses, situated near the union workhouse, contains twenty

The North Wilts Dispensary for the homœopathic ment of diseases is in Monday Market street, and was led in 1860.

Among the educational establishments of the town is the Devizes Grammar school; principal and head master, the Rev. S. S. Pugh: Wilsford House school; principal, D. G. Wilson Rumsey: and Eastbourne House Collegiate school; principal, Miss L. F. Palmer: each of which affords the individual care and attention of private tuition with the thoroughness and variety of the education of public schools.

A Literary and Scientific Institution was established in 1833, and has now (1889) 170 members.

The Savings Bank, situated near the Town Hall, is a large and well-built edifice of stone, in the Jacobean style, erected in the year 1848, and comprises banking and waiting-rooms, with a large board-room; the remainder of the building is used for residential purposes: the bank is open for the transaction of business every Thursday from 11 to 1 o'clock; and the accumulated funds now (1889) amount to about £50,000. A Penny Bank, conducted in the same building, is open every Tuesday from 12 to 1, and has been very successful; Mr. David Owen is the actuary of the Savings Bank and hon. secretary of the Penny Bank.

The Museum of the Wiltshire Archæological and Natural History Society, situated in Long street, was formally opened by Sir Gabriel Goldney bart. the president of the society, on the 8th September, 1874: the purchase of property, and the cost of its adaptation to its present purpose, has been met by a subscription from the members: the museum contains the archæological and natural history collections of the society, and a valuable library of books.

Devizes is the depôt of the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the Wiltshire Regiment (Duke of Edinburgh's), 62nd and 99th Foot, which form No. 62 Regimental District; barracks were erected on the London road: the staff of the Royal Wilts Militia are attached to the depôt: the building is in the Early English style. On the Bath road are cottages for a militia staff of 28 sergeants and 10 drummers. The B Troop of the Prince of Wales' Own Royal Wiltshire Yeomanry and the C and D Companies of the 2nd Volunteer Battalion, Duke of Edinburgh's Wiltshire Regiment, have their head quarters here, the total strength being 185 members.

Bateson Conservative Club, New Park street, was formally opened in 1886, by Mr. Walter Long, the popular member for East Wilts, and occupies the premises formerly known as the Bateson Reading Rooms. The club is managed by a committee of 15 elected yearly. President, Lord Deramore; secretary, Mr. T. A. Dring, Devizes.

Three newspapers are published here: the "Devizes and Wiltshire Gazette," the "Devizes and Wilts Advertiser," and the "Wiltshire Telegraph."

Sir Thomas Lawrence P.R.A. was born at Bristol, 13th April, 1769, and spent part of his youthful days in this town, where his parents kept the Bear hotel.

To the north-east is ROUNDWAY DOWN, the abrupt termination of a long ridge of chalk hills stretching westward from Marlborough: on its brow, and nearly overlooking the town, are the remains of an ancient earthwork or Roman station, and near it is Roundway Park, of 200 acres, with some fine timber, the seat of Charles Edward Hungerford Athol Colston esq. D.L., J.P.

In a picturesque and romantic situation, to the west of the borough, formerly stood the ancient Castle of Devizes, built in the reign of Henry I. by Roger, Bishop of Salisbury: old writers say that, for magnificence, extent and strength, this castle had not its equal in Europe: it seems that in 1139, Stephen, being jealous of the power of this warlike prelate, sent his minister, William D'Ypres, to lay siege to this castle; it was obstinately defended by Nigel, Bishop of Ely, a nephew of Roger; but Stephen, under threat of hanging the son of Roger, obtained possession, and found a treasure therein of 40,000 marks, besides other valuables. In 1141 Stephen was defeated and taken prisoner at the battle of Lincoln; the castle then surrendered to the Empress Maud, but she was unable to retain it, for having fled hither from Winchester, and still distrusting her safety, she caused herself to be inclosed in a bier, and thus passing out unsuspected, made good her retreat to Gloucester. Prince (afterwards King) John held the castle of Devizes for his brother Richard during his absence in the Holy Land. In 1223 Hubert de Burgh, the minister of Henry III. was a prisoner here, but effecting his escape took sanctuary at the high altar of St. John's church, from which he was dragged by the soldiers; the parties engaged in this sacrilege being thereupon excommunicated by the Bishop of Salisbury, the fugitive was restored to the sanctuary of the church; but the king, intent upon his destruction, endeavoured, by cutting off the supply of provisions, to starve him to death; he eventually, however, effected his escape into Wales. It was in a state of good preservation in the succeeding reign, for Leland speaks of it as a "goodlye building," and a "worke of incredible coste." Lambard, in 1569, says—"From being the most gorgeous in Christendom, it is now the most decayed."

During the Civil War this neighbourhood was the scene of a desperate conflict between the Parliamentary forces, under Sir William Waller, and the Royalists, commanded by Lord Wilmot, on the 22nd of September, 1643: the king, for some considerable time after, held the castle and garrison of Devizes, and contemplated concentrating most of his forces here, or in the neighbourhood; but on the 23rd September, 1645, Cromwell in person, accompanied by Fairfax, appeared before the town, when the governor, Sir Charles Lloyd, was forced speedily to capitulate: after which, the castle was destroyed, by order of Parliament, and the fortifications of Devizes razed to the ground: this property is now held by Sir Charles Rich bart. who purchased it on its being put up to auction shortly after the death of the late owner. On a portion of a site of the ancient fortress there now stands a modern castellated residence, called "Devizes Castle," which was greatly enlarged, and the grounds by which it is surrounded improved at great cost by the late Mr. Leach.

The population in 1881 was—St. John the Baptist parish, 1,940, including 124 in H.M. prison; St. Mary the Virgin parish, 2,605; part of Southbroom, 1,779; part of Rowde parish, 321; municipal limits, 3,343.
